New Housing Bill Passes Senate 71-24

Few Concessions Made; Eisenhower May Again Veto It

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed Tuesday a new $1,050,000,000 housing bill after refusing to make any substantial concessions on the floor to President Eisenhower's objections.

Passage was on a roll call vote of 71-24.

The measure now goes to the House which reportedly will not be in a hurry to act on it. There seemed to be a good chance it would not reach the President's desk until close to adjournment day.

Likely To Be Vetoed

Several senators raised the cry, however, that the bill likely would be vetoed just as its predecessor was.

As it passed the Senate, the compromise measure was cut well below the $1,375,000,000 total in the measure which Eisenhower killed last month. He rejected that one as inflationary and a Senate attempt to override the veto failed.

The new bill still contained authorizations for all of the government-backed housing programs in the earlier bill, including some which the administration strongly opposed.

It also carried liberalizations of the FHA home insurance program and other provisions designed to aid the private housing industry.

GOP senators, joined by some southern Democrats, made eight unsuccessful efforts to knock out of the bill items to which they said Eisenhower objected most strongly.

Motion Defeated

Failing in these, they finally offered a motion to send the bill back to committee for rewriting but this was beaten 67-28.

One of the hardest fights centered around a provision to start a new program of federal aid for college classroom construction with a 50-million-dollar loan fund. But Republicans were beaten twice Monday in efforts to scuttle this.

Rockefeller Tours Capital Without Revealing Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting like a man trying hard to make up his mind about 1960, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller tested the capital's political waters Tuesday without revealing any future plans.

The New York governor flew in for a whirlwind round of conferences, including a 45-minute session with President Eisenhower at the White House on civil defense matters.

Although Rockefeller told a news conference that "nothing of a serious character" bearing on the 1960 Republican presidential nomination came up in the talk with the President, he conceded he had discussed the New Hampshire primary outlook with Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH).

It is in New Hampshire's primary next March that Rockefeller's friends believe he must contest Vice President Richard M. Nixon if he intends to bid for the party nomination.

Throughout the heavily scheduled day Rockefeller appeared to be cautiously feeling out the political situation in anticipation of a decision, probably some time this fall, on whether he will seek the nomination.

He said Eisenhower neither encouraged nor discouraged him in the matter of trying for the prize. Eisenhower has indicated he will not choose between Nixon and Rockefeller.

DECIDES—Secretary of Labor James Mitchell yesterday told White House reporters he and President Eisenhower have decided to make public the basic facts behind the steel strike in hopes of spurring negotiations and a settlement. (AP Photofax)

Public To Get Facts In Long Steel Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower decided Tuesday to push for a steel strike settlement by giving the public basic facts about the dispute.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell announced the decision after a 45-minute discussion with the President.

"We hope as a result of these background statistics that the parties will bargain a little harder and reach a settlement," Mitchell told newsmen.

Mitchell has been working for weeks, with a huge staff, gathering statistics from both government and industry sources. Data he will release Wednesday, for Thursday's newspapers, will cover wages, profits, productivity, prices and some related subjects.

His report will be purely factual Mitchell said, with no recommendations that either the United Steelworkers Union or the companies do anything.

Asked whether the data will favor either side, he said: "I think that is for the public to judge."

Here are some basic facts, already known:

The strike is 35 days old and every week it continues it costs 300 million dollars in production and 70 million in wages. Half a million workers are on strike and 150,000 in related industries have been laid off.

The union is demanding pay raises and fringe benefits which the companies contend would be inflationary.

Eisenhower has favored a hands-off attitude for the government, and it is known the administration has planned to hold off invoking the Taft-Hartley Act at least until Sept. 15. Officials are convinced there will be no damaging steel shortage until then.

The Taft-Hartley law requires a cooling off period for 80 days, but no major strike has been ended by using this provision. The strike usually just resumes at the end of the 80 days.

Mitchell told a questioner he does not regard the publication of his figures as a form of government intervention. And, asked whether he interprets it as bringing pressure on industry and the union, he said he wouldn't interpret it at all.

Storage Tank Explosion Kills Two

Spews Flaming Gasoline Into Line Of Firemen

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — The death toll of an immense explosion which spewed flaming gasoline on a line of firemen at a combination service-bulk station rose to two Tuesday night with the death of another fireman, 28-year-old Neil Owens.

The first injured firefighter to succumb to burns was Virgil L. Sams, also 28, who died about four hours after he was admitted to General Hospital in Kansas City, Mo.

Six firemen remained on the critical list at two hospitals Tuesday night. They are Delbert Stone, Peter Sirna, George Edward Bartel, John A. Simon, and Homer Cook, Jr., all at General, and Francis J. Toomis at Providence Hospital. All are Kansas City, Mo., firemen.

100 Persons Injured

A total of about 100 persons were injured in the conflagration. More than a dozen were overcome by smoke inhalation and heat before the mushrooming blast, and some spectators suffered minor injuries in assisting the burned firemen from the wall of flames.

In all, more than 60 fire fighters were injured.

Director Edgar Grass of the Kansas City, Mo., department suffered a cut over the eye and burns on the face.

Grass was about 30 feet behind a line of some 50 firemen pouring streams of water and foam on the lake of flame when the last tank exploded and hurled the tidal wave of flaming fluid.

Knocked To Ground

The firemen were knocked to the ground in a mass of twisted, flaming forms, five staggered to their feet, their clothing ablaze, and ran screaming. They were tackled and rolled on the ground by spectators, police and ambulance drivers to extinguish the flames.

Another fireman, momentarily crazed, raced to a group of spectators and shouted, "come on, help me get those crisp guys out of there."

The blast hurled the huge metal tank into the street about 60 feet from where it stood. Three other 1,800-gallon tanks were crumpled by explosions.

Seconds before the blast, Grass had given an order for the firemen to retreat from the flames.

He said he heard a loud hissing noise and "figured it was about to blow."

Scores of ambulances had been dispatched to the scene before the series of explosions. The injured were removed quickly by the shuttling ambulances.

The fire started when a transport tanker truck was being loaded at the service station. The driver, James Mitchum, 33, Shawnee, Kan., was burned on both arms and taken to Kansas Medical Center. Two others in the station at the time escaped injury and gave the alarm.

Commerce Head Sees Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller said Tuesday the nation's business is booming and "I would hope that we can look forward within a reasonable period to a tax cut."

Mueller told a news conference "there is no question but what we are in the rising cycle. Barring a prolonged steel strike, we will stay in the rising cycle during the foreseeable future."

It was his first session with reporters since he was confirmed for the cabinet post early this month.

Prior to the news conference, the Commerce Department announced the nation's gross national product was at the record annual rate of 484½ billion dollars during the second quarter of this year. That is a 14½-billion-dollar increase over the first three months of this year and represents a gain of about 50 billion dollars from the low point of the recession early last year.

The gross national product represents the total value of all goods produced and services rendered.

Meany Attacks Congress' Labor Legislation

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP) — George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said Tuesday big business is jamming through Congress legislation that will hamstring labor unions and hurt the nation's economy.

"This is intended to kill organized labor," Meany said. "But we'll survive. We'll operate as best we can for the workers' welfare and we'll continue to fight corruption wherever we find it."

Organized labor's top leader said he hoped bills already passed by the House and Senate could be reconciled to preserve what he termed the less detrimental features of each. But he said he has little confidence that will happen.

"I'm not optimistic; quite obviously the antilabor forces are riding high," he said.

Meany spoke to newsmen after the AFL-CIO Executive Council—the organization's high command—issued a statement blasting the bill recently passed by the House. The council said it is designed by big business interests to weaken unions rather than deal effectively with labor corruption.

The AFL-CIO leaders are holding their summer session here at a union-owned camp in the Pocono Mountains.

The leaders of organized labor like neither the House-passed bill, which was endorsed by President Eisenhower, nor a Senate version passed last April. Of the two, they regard the House bill as the more objectionable.

The AFL-CIO leaders maintain that, instead of dealing with corruption, the bills go much further and attempt to punish all organized labor for the sins of a few unions.

Bones Of Missing Woman Are Found

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The whitened bones of Pearl Ada Putney, once the object of a nationwide search, were found scattered in deep California woods a year after the wealthy widow was last seen in company of an ex-convict.

Remains of the 72 - year - old Washington, D.C., woman were found Sunday in the Sierra foothills, scattered and lightly covered with bark. They were identified Tuesday.

Sheriff W. D. Johnson said it was too early to say whether the discovery would cause another nationwide search for Larry Lord Motherwell, 42, an ex - convict whose recent years have been marked by deaths of those close to him. His whereabouts is unknown here.

The bones were found by Alma Freeman of Rio Oso, Calif., while hunting pine cones Sunday. Only the skull and parts of the skeleton were found. Identification was made through dental records by the California Criminal Identification and Investigation Bureau in Sacramento.

The discovery was made a year and a day after Mrs. Putney was last seen at a motel in Marysville, 60 miles southeast of this mountain community.

She was reported carrying about $50,000 in cash and negotiable securities on a "last fling."

The "last fling" was an unannounced cross-country automobile trip with Motherwell that precipitated a nationwide search for the pair.

Investigations led to discovery that Motherwell had buried the body of his 14-month-old mongoloid daughter in a dog cemetery June 19, 1954, in Maryland.

Motherwell was arrested last Jan. 18 in Las Vegas, Nev. He said he had left Mrs. Putney in good health in California, and no charges were filed against him in her disappearance.

He was released Feb. 6 in Frederick, Md., after a grand jury failed to indict him in his daughter's death.

The child's mother, Sarah McKlirkin, had drowned in a bathtub in Washington Nov. 7, 1953. She was Motherwell's second wife.

At the time of Motherwell's arrest in Las Vegas he said Mrs. Putney had hired him as her chauffeur on the cross-country trip. He had $1,600 in his pockets. He said that was part of the several thousand dollars the widow paid him for chauffeuring her.

The search for the widow had almost been forgotten when Mrs. Freeman chanced upon the bones Sunday, 28 miles east of Downieville in a heavily timbered area about one-fourth mile off Highway 49.

Mrs. Freeman kicked what she thought was a puffball. It was a skull. On the highway, she found California Highway Patrolman Larry H. Sanders of Loyalton who notified the sheriff's office.

"We gathered up the few bones we could find and sent them to Sacramento," Sheriff Johnson said.

He presumed that Mrs. Putney was killed and her body dragged into the area. But he said there was no way of telling from the bones the manner of death.

Cloudbursts Pour Water Into Calif. Canyons

NEEDLES, Calif. (AP)—Cloudburst rains pounded the California-Arizona desert for three hours Monday night and Tuesday. Walls of water pouring down normally dry canyons caused wide devastation.

One churning 25 - foot crest smashed into a two-ton truck and sent it rolling. At least two of the six railway section hands aboard were killed. A survivor was washed more than a mile.

Floods swept across U.S. Highway 66, blocking bridges, ripping out chunks of pavement and stranding 200 cars. Four were washed away moments after their owners fled to high ground.

Edith Appears To Diminish

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Tropical storm Edith appeared to be losing strength Tuesday night on its travels through island groups southeast of Puerto Rico.

A hurricane watch remained in effect for Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and eastern Hispaniola but was discontinued for the Lesser Antilles, south and west of the Virgin Islands.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at San Juan and air and surface craft's reports indicated the season's fifth tropical storm was 200 miles east-southeast of Puerto Rico at 5 p. m. and moving west-northwest at 17 to 19 miles an hour. At that time it was 1,250 miles southeast of Miami, Fla.

The Weather Bureau said Edith appeared to have weakened in intensity, with winds dropping to 40-45 miles an hour. The storm was expected to show little change in intensity during the night.

Americans Sign Act Aimed To Ease Tensions

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—American foreign ministers wound up their Caribbean peace conference Tuesday by signing a 10,000-word final act aimed at starting tension-easing machinery in motion.

Meanwhile Chile, the host nation, threw out a party of Cuban soldiers and newsmen who landed in a Cuban air force transport, uninvited and without authorization, as the advance guard for a professed good will visit by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's brother Raul.

Cuba joined, however, with 19 other Latin American nations and the United States in signing the act at the closing session of the seven-day conference.

Among the others was the Dominican Republic, whose Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo has been accused by Castro of attempting to overthrow Cuba's revolutionary regime.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter told newsmen he believed the conference "will have a long-range effect that will have great significance."

The expulsion of the Cuban party — 13 bearded soldiers equipped with pistols and machine guns, 21 newsmen and 7 plane crewmen—came before dawn.

Two Chilean warplanes escorted them from Santiago, where they had been held in the military area of the airport since their landing Monday, and sent them on their way to Lima, Peru, where Castro's brother had tarried on his way to this city.

House Pigeonholes Plan To Raise Bond Interest

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee, in a surprise reversal of an earlier vote, Tuesday pigeonholed President Eisenhower's urgent request for authority to raise interest rates on long-term government bonds.

By voting 14-11 to table the legislation, the committee virtually killed all chances of its passage during this session.

All votes for the motion were cast by Democrats. It was opposed by all 10 Republicans on the 25-member committee and by one Democrat, Rep. Burr P. Harrison of Virginia.

The committee's action was denounced by Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania, senior Republican of the group, as "incredible folly." Failure to approve the legislation this year, he said, would be an invitation to unrestrained inflation.

Eisenhower has made repeated public pleas that Congress remove the 4¼ per cent interest ceiling on long-term bonds, those that mature in five years or later. The Treasury said this must be done if the government is to compete in a money market where other borrowers are willing to pay more.

The legislation sidetracked Tuesday was only a compromise with what Eisenhower wanted. He asked for a permanent lifting of the 4¼ per cent ceiling—in effect since World War I. The bill would have permitted him to raise the rates during the next three years if the national interest required it.

Helicopters Rescue Many In Dam Area

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Earthquakes rocked mountain country of southwest Montana just west of Yellowstone National Park Monday night and Tuesday, leaving at least 17 dead.

At least 33 persons were injured seriously enough to require hospital care.

A dozen injured persons, all reported in serious condition, were evacuated from the Ehbgen Dam area Tuesday afternoon by helicopter.

The dam was cracked and battered by the earth shocks but still held.

Highways Ripped Up

Large sections of a highway rimming the lake formed by the dam were ripped loose and flung into the water.

Engineers said there is a possibility a number of persons might be buried beneath hundreds of tons of debris at the Rock Creek campground below the dam.

The worst shock came shortly before midnight. It was followed by numerous aftershocks. These continued during the day, leaving the ground "shaking like jelly," as a telephone repair crew described it.

Shocks were felt in Yellowstone Park, where 22,000 to 25,000 persons were vacationing. Slides closed a number of roads in the park, including the main highway to the west, but no one was reported killed or injured in the vast summer playground.

Old Faithful Inn was closed after a water main burst but officials expected to have one wing reopened during the night. Old Faithful geyser continued spouting on its hourly schedule.

Five bodies were in a mortuary at Virginia City, historic town in western lore, and two more were reported being taken there. Three bodies were in a mortuary at Ennis, Mont.

The University of California estimated the shock at 7.8, compared to the 8.2 magnitude of the 1906 quake in San Francisco, the most powerful in modern times.

Is Less Severe

Dr. Charles Richter, an authority on earthquakes at the California Institute of Technology, said he thinks it was somewhat less severe, possibly 7.2.

Death reports were fragmentary and possibly duplicating.

A helicopter pilot told Sheriff Lloyd Brook at historic Virginia City, Mont., he had seen six bodies during a trip over the area.

Idaho State Police, in a broadcast heard by Montana Civil Defense headquarters, said they were told there were eight deaths near Reynolds Pass, on the Idaho-Montana border.

Hugh Potter, Montana Civil Defense director, said the stranded people were slowly making their way out of the bottled up gorge. He predicted "they'll get out all right."

He said veteran smokejumpers—parachutists skilled in fighting forest fires — had been dropped into the area to help them. He said about 100 people were engaged in rescue operations. Seven helicopters, three Montana state planes and numerous private

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The whitened bones of Pearl Ada Putney, once the object of a nationwide search, were found scattered in deep California woods a year after the wealthy widow was last seen in company of an ex-convict.

Remains of the 72 - year - old Washington, D.C., woman were found Sunday in the Sierra foothills, scattered and lightly covered with bark. They were identified Tuesday.

Sheriff W. D. Johnson said it was too early to say whether the discovery would cause another nationwide search for Larry Lord Motherwell, 42, an ex - convict whose recent years have been marked by deaths of those close to him. His whereabouts is unknown here.

The bones were found by Alma Freeman of Rio Oso, Calif., while hunting pine cones Sunday. Only the skull and parts of the skeleton were found. Identification was made through dental records by the California Criminal Identification and Investigation Bureau in Sacramento.

The discovery was made a year and a day after Mrs. Putney was last seen at a motel in Marysville, 60 miles southeast of this mountain community.

She was reported carrying about $50,000 in cash and negotiable securities on a "last fling."

The "last fling" was an unannounced cross-country automobile trip with Motherwell that precipitated a nationwide search for the pair.

Investigations led to discovery that Motherwell had buried the body of his 14-month-old mongoloid daughter in a dog cemetery June 19, 1954, in Maryland.

Motherwell was arrested last Jan. 18 in Las Vegas, Nev. He said he had left Mrs. Putney in good health in California, and no charges were filed against him in her disappearance.

He was released Feb. 6 in Frederick, Md., after a grand jury failed to indict him in his daughter's death.

The child's mother, Sarah McKlirkin, had drowned in a bathtub in Washington Nov. 7, 1953. She was Motherwell's second wife.

At the time of Motherwell's arrest in Las Vegas he said Mrs. Putney had hired him as her chauffeur on the cross-country trip. He had $1,600 in his pockets. He said that was part of the several thousand dollars the widow paid him for chauffeuring her.

The search for the widow had almost been forgotten when Mrs. Freeman chanced upon the bones Sunday, 28 miles east of Downieville in a heavily timbered area about one-fourth mile off Highway 49.

Mrs. Freeman kicked what she thought was a puffball. It was a skull. On the highway, she found California Highway Patrolman Larry H. Sanders of Loyalton who notified the sheriff's office.

"We gathered up the few bones we could find and sent them to Sacramento," Sheriff Johnson said.

He presumed that Mrs. Putney was killed and her body dragged into the area. But he said there was no way of telling from the bones the manner of death.

Cloudbursts Pour Water Into Calif. Canyons

NEEDLES, Calif. (AP)—Cloudburst rains pounded the California-Arizona desert for three hours Monday night and Tuesday. Walls of water pouring down normally dry canyons caused wide devastation.

One churning 25 - foot crest smashed into a two-ton truck and sent it rolling. At least two of the six railway section hands aboard were killed. A survivor was washed more than a mile.

Floods swept across U.S. Highway 66, blocking bridges, ripping out chunks of pavement and stranding 200 cars. Four were washed away moments after their owners fled to high ground.

Americans Sign Act Aimed To Ease Tensions

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—American foreign ministers wound up their Caribbean peace conference Tuesday by signing a 10,000-word final act aimed at starting tension-easing machinery in motion.

Meanwhile Chile, the host nation, threw out a party of Cuban soldiers and newsmen who landed in a Cuban air force transport, uninvited and without authorization, as the advance guard for a professed good will visit by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's brother Raul.

Cuba joined, however, with 19 other Latin American nations and the United States in signing the act at the closing session of the seven-day conference.

Among the others was the Dominican Republic, whose Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo has been accused by Castro of attempting to overthrow Cuba's revolutionary regime.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter told newsmen he believed the conference "will have a long-range effect that will have great significance."

The expulsion of the Cuban party — 13 bearded soldiers equipped with pistols and machine guns, 21 newsmen and 7 plane crewmen—came before dawn.

Two Chilean warplanes escorted them from Santiago, where they had been held in the military area of the airport since their landing Monday, and sent them on their way to Lima, Peru, where Castro's brother had tarried on his way to this city.

Edith Appears To Diminish

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Tropical storm Edith appeared to be losing strength Tuesday night on its travels through island groups southeast of Puerto Rico.

A hurricane watch remained in effect for Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and eastern Hispaniola but was discontinued for the Lesser Antilles, south and west of the Virgin Islands.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at San Juan and air and surface craft's reports indicated the season's fifth tropical storm was 200 miles east-southeast of Puerto Rico at 5 p. m. and moving west-northwest at 17 to 19 miles an hour. At that time it was 1,250 miles southeast of Miami, Fla.

The Weather Bureau said Edith appeared to have weakened in intensity, with winds dropping to 40-45 miles an hour. The storm was expected to show little change in intensity during the night.

Helicopters Rescue Many In Dam Area

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Earthquakes rocked mountain country of southwest Montana just west of Yellowstone National Park Monday night and Tuesday, leaving at least 17 dead.

At least 33 persons were injured seriously enough to require hospital care.

A dozen injured persons, all reported in serious condition, were evacuated from the Ehbgen Dam area Tuesday afternoon by helicopter.

The dam was cracked and battered by the earth shocks but still held.

Highways Ripped Up

Large sections of a highway rimming the lake formed by the dam were ripped loose and flung into the water.

Engineers said there is a possibility a number of persons might be buried beneath hundreds of tons of debris at the Rock Creek campground below the dam.

The worst shock came shortly before midnight. It was followed by numerous aftershocks. These continued during the day, leaving the ground "shaking like jelly," as a telephone repair crew described it.

Shocks were felt in Yellowstone Park, where 22,000 to 25,000 persons were vacationing. Slides closed a number of roads in the park, including the main highway to the west, but no one was reported killed or injured in the vast summer playground.

Old Faithful Inn was closed after a water main burst but officials expected to have one wing reopened during the night. Old Faithful geyser continued spouting on its hourly schedule.

Five bodies were in a mortuary at Virginia City, historic town in western lore, and two more were reported being taken there. Three bodies were in a mortuary at Ennis, Mont.

The University of California estimated the shock at 7.8, compared to the 8.2 magnitude of the 1906 quake in San Francisco, the most powerful in modern times.

Is Less Severe

Dr. Charles Richter, an authority on earthquakes at the California Institute of Technology, said he thinks it was somewhat less severe, possibly 7.2.

Death reports were fragmentary and possibly duplicating.

Idaho State Police, in a broadcast heard by Montana Civil Defense headquarters, said they were told there were eight deaths near Reynolds Pass, on the Idaho-Montana border.

Hugh Potter, Montana Civil Defense director, said the stranded people were slowly making their way out of the bottled up gorge. He predicted "they'll get out all right."

He said veteran smokejumpers—parachutists skilled in fighting forest fires — had been dropped into the area to help them. He said about 100 people were engaged in rescue operations. Seven helicopters, three Montana state planes and numerous private

House Pigeonholes Plan To Raise Bond Interest

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee, in a surprise reversal of an earlier vote, Tuesday pigeonholed President Eisenhower's urgent request for authority to raise interest rates on long-term government bonds.

By voting 14-11 to table the legislation, the committee virtually killed all chances of its passage during this session.

All votes for the motion were cast by Democrats. It was opposed by all 10 Republicans on the 25-member committee and by one Democrat, Rep. Burr P. Harrison of Virginia.

The committee's action was denounced by Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania, senior Republican of the group, as "incredible folly." Failure to approve the legislation this year, he said, would be an invitation to unrestrained inflation.

Eisenhower has made repeated public pleas that Congress remove the 4¼ per cent interest ceiling on long-term bonds, those that mature in five years or later. The Treasury said this must be done if the government is to compete in a money market where other borrowers are willing to pay more.

The legislation sidetracked Tuesday was only a compromise with what Eisenhower wanted. He asked for a permanent lifting of the 4¼ per cent ceiling—in effect since World War I. The bill would have permitted him to raise the rates during the next three years if the national interest required it.

Spreading Tumor Slowly Drains Life Of Boy, 4

BALTIMORE (AP) — Little Floyd Wentz rarely talks.

He doesn't join in any of the give and take of the other children, sitting together at a large table.

He is carried to his place for every meal from his crib in a room a few feet away. The nurses tell him to eat and he makes a game try at eating. Then he's carried back.

If Floyd eats enough, his doctor says, he'll let the boy go home in a week or so. There doesn't seem to be anything they can do for him, anyway.

Floyd is almost 4. He is expected to die soon.

"It's just a matter of another month," said his physician.

Floyd's hospital chart says "bloodborne pulmonary metastases." This means that a tumor found in his kidneys eight months ago has spread to his lungs. Surgery could not remove the tumor and radiation failed to check its growth.

Every weekend, Floyd's mother leaves her six other children and makes the 25-mile trip from Manchester in Carroll County to see her son. She brought him his teddy bear and his toy duck. She talks to him.

Floyd has one other friend here. LeRoy Haskins managed to break through the boy's defenses and Floyd talks to him.

The nurses tell him to sit up and he sits up. They ask him to move his arm and he moves his arm.

But he never speaks. His legs and arms are pitifully thin and his stomach is swollen with the tumor that means death.

People in Floyd's hometown, and at the hospital, think he might like to receive get-well cards. But don't expect an answer. Unless there is a miracle, Floyd isn't going to get well.

Labor Measure Progress Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees reported progress after their first meeting Tuesday to iron out differences between labor control bills passed by the Senate and House.

Rep. Graham A. Barden (D-NC), chairman of the House conferees, told newsmen he saw no reason to deadlock and expressed hope agreement could be reached by the end of the week.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), chief sponsor of the Senate measure, said "we are making progress." But he didn't attempt to forecast when a compromise would be worked out.

Barden and Kennedy said general agreement was reached on the first section establishing a bill of rights for union members and that work was started on the second section requiring detailed financial reporting.

The most controversial differences between the Senate and House bills are in other sections relating to organizational picketing, secondary boycotts and other changes in the Taft-Hartley Act.

Bus, Trailer Crash Is Fatal To Two Persons

MT. PLEASANT, Pa. (UPI)—A Greyhound bus knifed into the rear of a tractor-trailer in predawn darkness on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Tuesday, killing two persons and injuring five others.

The dead were identified as Julius Boros, 68, Newark, N.J., and Patricia Ann Day, 20. The Westmoreland County Coroner's Office listed the woman's address as Tally Ho Twp., Granville County, N.C., but State Police gave her address as 8923 Superior Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Miss Day's mother, Mrs. Julie O. Day, lives at 645 Water St., Pottstown, Pa.

They were killed when the rear of the trailer sliced through the right side of the bus like a giant knife.

The injured were John M. Bee, Pittsburgh, the bus driver; Sheldon Barlette, 40, Akron, Ohio; William Smith, 71, New York City, and Cemgiz Lemurverdi, 20, and Sadik Gakteirk, 20, both of Flushing, N.Y.

Bee was admitted to Frick Memorial Hospital here in good condition with cuts and bruises and brush burns of both legs. The others were treated and released.

The truck driver, Haskell C. Keith, Spencerville, Ind., was uninjured.

The accident occurred about 3½ miles west of the Donegal Interchange when the bus came upon the slow-moving truck on a gradual right hand curve.

211 Students Are Enrolled

FRONT ROYAL, Va. (AP)—A total of 211 white pupils registered here Tuesday for enrollment in the private, segregated high school whose operation in 1959-60 has been conditioned on "overwhelming demand."

Applications on the first of two days of registration were not quite one-third of the 650-to-700 figure which the Warren County Educational Foundation had set as the minimum for a second year's operation of the school.

But Hugh D. McCormick, foundation president, said he regarded the turnout as "a fair enrollment for the first day." He declined to predict how many additional registrations there may be Wednesday.

More than 800 white high school students attended the foundation's private facilities last session. The private school was opened when Warren County High School was shut down last September to avert integration. Later, when the public school was reopened on an integrated basis, all white pupils remained in the private school and only 22 Negroes enrolled at Warren County High.

The number of registrants for enrollment in Warren County High for the 1959-60 session reached 327 today—309 white children, 18 Negroes—when 11 additional white pupils registered at the principal's office.

In the official registration period last Friday, Saturday and yesterday, 298 whites and the 18 Negroes had indicated they would attend the public school when it opens Aug. 31, presumably on an integrated basis though final pupil assignments have not been made.

planes were helping in rescue work.

On one side of the people in the Madison River canyon was the huge slide. On the other side was 44-year-old Hebgen Dam, 87 feet high, damaged but still holding back a third of a million acre feet of water. The dam is 12 miles west of Yellowstone Park boundary.

Tilted The Country

The tremors tilted the country behind the dam — tipping the dam — tipping the north shore downward 6 to 15 feet, Stephenson reported, and raising the south shore by as much.

The Montana Power Co., which owns the dam, said one of its men had been able to reach the structure and inspect its face and that it should hold for the time being.

Several injured persons are around the dam — on high ground — the power company said. It added that a physician is being sent into the area by boat from West Yellowstone. Some of the injured are seriously hurt, the company said. It theorized most of them were fishermen or tourists.

Judge Rules Miss Tregoff Defendant In Murder Trial

Testimony she gave at Dr. Finch's preliminary hearing worked against her at her own hearing and resulted in her being held to answer in Superior Court Aug. 31.

That's when Dr. Finch, 41-year-old wealthy physician-surgeon, also will enter a plea.

Extensive arguments over admissability of Miss Tregoff's testimony in the earlier hearing preceded ruling by Municipal Judge William M. Martin.

Miss Tregoff, 22, a shapely ex-model and onetime private secretary to Dr. Finch, started out as a prosecution witness. She was arrested as she left the witness stand at his hearing.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Fred N. Whichello, who ordered the arrest, said it was because she changed her story from that given police during the initial investigation.

The prosecutor said she contradicted her statement that she hid in some bushes and saw nothing the night of July 18, when Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch, 33, was shot to death.

Defense Atty. Robert A. Neeb Jr., argued unsuccessfully that Miss Tregoff's constitutional rights were violated and that her own testimony should not be used against her.

Whichello argued: "She shifted her role as against the then defendant (Dr. Finch) to against herself.

"She took the position of voluntarily testifying against herself."

WHAT WILL CITY'S Continuous Credit do for you?

Up to $ 50.00	$ 5.00
$ 51.00 to 75.00	7.00
76.00 to 100.00	9.00
101.00 to 150.00	10.00
151.00 to 200.00	12.00
201.00 to 250.00	14.00
251.00 to 300.00	16.00
301.00 to 350.00	18.00
351.00 to 400.00	20.00
401.00 to 450.00	22.00
451.00 to 500.00	24.00
501.00 to 550.00	26.00

This new credit plan of "City" lets you add to your present account without increasing monthly payment rates. Suppose you buy a refrigerator for $229 with a monthly paymnet rate of $15. After several months, when the balance has been somewhat reduced, you wish to make additional purchases. So long as the total of your balance and your new purchase does not exceed $250 your monthly payment remains at $15.

There is no down payment when you make Continuous Credit Purchases. You may make a down payment if you prefer, but none is required on purchases totaling up to $500. On greater amounts, only a 10% down payment is required.

You know in advance what your monthly payments will be. The chart on the left shows the payments on your Continuous Credit Account. For instance, if you make a $75 purchase (with monthly payment rate of $7) and also a $100 purchase (with monthly payment rate of $9) you pay only the monthly payment rate on your combined purchases. Since they total $175 your monthly payment rate would be only $12.

Buy what you need . . . when you need it!

Your old account need not be closed to buy more.

Testimony she gave at Dr. Finch's preliminary hearing worked against her at her own hearing and resulted in her being held to answer in Superior Court Aug. 31.

That's when Dr. Finch, 41-year-old wealthy physician-surgeon, also will enter a plea.

Extensive arguments over admissability of Miss Tregoff's testimony in the earlier hearing preceded ruling by Municipal Judge William M. Martin.

Miss Tregoff, 22, a shapely ex-model and onetime private secretary to Dr. Finch, started out as a prosecution witness. She was arrested as she left the witness stand at his hearing.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Fred N. Whichello, who ordered the arrest, said it was because she changed her story from that given police during the initial investigation.

The prosecutor said she contradicted her statement that she hid in some bushes and saw nothing the night of July 18, when Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch, 33, was shot to death.

Defense Atty. Robert A. Neeb Jr., argued unsuccessfully that Miss Tregoff's constitutional rights were violated and that her own testimony should not be used against her.

Whichello argued: "She shifted her role as against the then defendant (Dr. Finch) to against herself.

"She took the position of voluntarily testifying against herself."

WHAT WILL CITY'S Continuous Credit do for you?

This new credit plan of "City" lets you add to your present account without increasing monthly payment rates. Suppose you buy a refrigerator for $229 with a monthly paymnet rate of $15. After several months, when the balance has been somewhat reduced, you wish to make additional purchases. So long as the total of your balance and your new purchase does not exceed $250 your monthly payment remains at $15.

There is no down payment when you make Continuous Credit Purchases. You may make a down payment if you prefer, but none is required on purchases totaling up to $500. On greater amounts, only a 10% down payment is required.

You know in advance what your monthly payments will be. The chart on the left shows the payments on your Continuous Credit Account. For instance, if you make a $75 purchase (with monthly payment rate of $7) and also a $100 purchase (with monthly payment rate of $9) you pay only the monthly payment rate on your combined purchases. Since they total $175 your monthly payment rate would be only $12.

Up to $ 50.00	$ 5.00
$ 51.00 to 75.00	7.00
76.00 to 100.00	9.00

Tawes Fills Board Vacancies

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Tuesday filled vacancies on the Advisory Council on Hospital Construction and the Mine Examining Board.

Tawes appointed Dr. Marcus W. Moore of Baltimore to the 15-member board which consults with and advises the State Board of Health on hospital construction under the Hill-Burton Act.

Dr. Moore was recommended for the appointment by the Medical and Chirurgical Society of Maryland. He fills the unexpired term of Dr. Charles T. Woodland who died recently.

The governor named Leslie T. Foote of Lonaconing as the miners' representative on the Mine Examining Board. Foote succeeds Ellis Ellifritz who recently moved to West Virginia after serving on the Maryland board for 10 years.

Foote, who was appointed for an indefinite term, was recommended by Frank T. Powers, director of the State Bureau of Mines.

The Mine Examining Board consists of the director and two other members, one representing the miners and the other the operators. The board examines applicants for the ratings of first-class mine foreman and fire boss.

Con Man Picked Wrong House, Hit With Bat

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mrs. Hilda M. Seymour, 75, listened politely when the middle-aged man called at her home and asked for $25. He said Mrs. Seymour's husband had borrowed it recently.

After the man finished his little speech, Mrs. Seymour told him to leave and she closed the door.

The man stayed on the porch, so the lady of the house picked up a baseball bat and went back outside. Again she told the man to leave and again he demanded the money.

Mrs. Seymour swung the bat and connected on top the man's head. He left in a hurry.

"I knew he was a fake," Mrs. Seymour told police.

Her husband died a long time ago.

Fall Seeding Is Progressing

COLLEGE PARK (AP)—Maryland and Delaware farmers registered good progress with haymaking and preparation of land for fall seedings last week as the two-state area got its first full week of clear weather since July 10.

The Crop Reporting Service said, however, that some sections of Southern Maryland and the Delmar peninsula remained wet from the heavy July and August rains.

With a return to dry weather, tobacco harvest picked up rapidly in Southern Maryland, but some fields showed damage to lower leaves. On the Delmar Peninsula, a number of tomato fields were abandoned because of rain damage. The peninsula's cantaloupe crop also suffered severe damage and picking was almost complete.

The crop service said sweet corn harvest was in full swing on both sides of Chesapeake Bay. Corn was described as in the "milk" stage over the northern half of the two-state area and in the "dough" stage in southern sections. About 65 per cent of the acreage for processing had been picked up by the end of the week.

Nearly half the area's soybean acreage had reached the blooming stage and pastures generally showed good condition. The third cutting of alfalfa was about 75 per cent complete and about 80 per cent of clover mixture had been cut a second time.

Milk Output Drops This Year

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A 76-million-pound milk output on West Virginia farms in July fell two million below June production and one million below July, 1958.

The average daily production per cow in crop reporters' herds as of Aug. 1 was 18.2 pounds, the same as on the comparable 1958 date. But the level was maintained only by heavier feeding of grain.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said pastures averaged only 70 per cent of normal on Aug. 1, 26 points below the previous year.

Man Charged For Shooting At Deputy

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—A 40-year-old Negro accused of firing shots at a deputy sheriff was charged Tuesday with assault with intent to kill.

Tast Dennard, the caretaker, surrendered to 12 law officers who were called to Unity Hill Manor, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wege of Merchantsville, N.J.

Sheriff Calvert Creighton gave this account:

Deputy Ira (Sarge) Johnson was sent to the home at nearby Town Point after Mrs. Wege called Monday night and complained that Dennard was drinking and creating a disturbance.

As he approached the manor house to speak to Mrs. Wege, a shot was fired. He pushed the woman towards the house and returned to his car to radio for help. Another shot was fired while he was in the car.

Seven state troopers, a constable, Shreiff Creighton and two other deputies hurried to the scene.

Sheriff Creighton said that as they closed in on the caretaker's house, near the Wege home, Dennard strolled outside with a shotgun and shouted, "I'll take care of them."

He surrendered without shooting, however, when State Police Cpl. Walter Dodson ordered him to drop the gun.

Dennard was brought to the Dorchester County jail. Creighton said charges would be filed after the state's attorney completes an investigation.

Workers Next Door Knock Holes In Neighbor's Wall

BALTIMORE (AP)—"I need a hole in the wall like I need one in the head," moaned Andrew Lowinski, looking at the wall inside the rowhouse where he lives.

"They've knocked about 40 holes through from next door. They're making a big mess in here on all three floors. They make so much noise I can't sleep—I've been sick—and now I think they've killed the cat."

The day after the left, Lowinski saw the first holes breaking through.

"Stop!" he shouted.

And they were. Putting in new beams, from cellar to third floor, in the corner house in the row of brick dwellings.

Lowinski said he didn't want to argue with the workmen. So he called the Bureau of Building Inspection.

They told me they had to inspect the schools today and didn't have time to stop this. Can you imagine that? What am I supposed to do?

"That cat is out cold on the cellar floor. I think he got hit on the head by a brick. My sister liked him so much. Wait 'Till she gets home from vacation.

The cat was particularly valuable, he explained, because it could drink milk from a bottle while holding the bottle with its front paws.

Robert G. Deitrich, chief of the Bureau of Building Inspection, said later that his men are quite busy with school inspections "but not so busy as to forget everything else."

He sent out an inspector and stopped work immediately. The repair men, it turned out, didn't have a permit in the first place.

Demonstration Is Slated For Cafeteria Managers

With school only a month away, the cafeteria department of the Allegany County Board of Education is moving ahead with the start of the hot lunch program.

Mrs. Gladys Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias, said Saturday, August 26, all school cafeteria managers will attend a demonstration on preparation of various foods by a nationally known expert in her field.

Miss Gertrude Eckstine, of Standard Brands, will show various ways of using gelatines and puddings in school menus.

Then on September 3 the managers and head cooks will meet at the Board of Education building for the final pre-school briefing on the new system to be adopted this year.

Mrs. Eaton said this year menus will be the same in all schools. Previously each manager made out her menu, and it was checked for nutritional content by Mrs. Eaton. Each noon meal must contain half the daily nutritional requirement for a growing child.

Now, Mrs. Eaton said, the menus for a month will be prepared by herself and five cafeteria managers. Each day each school in the county, except the three large high schools, must serve the same meal.

Each manager will be called in twice a year to serve on the board that makes up the meals.

The new system has many advantages, Mrs. Eaton pointed out. The main one is that there is a distinct advantage when it comes to buying food on a large scale.

In addition to listing the food on the daily menu, the recipes for the various servings are included on the master sheet distributed to each school.

The first meal will be served on Friday, September 11.

All schools will follow the master menu plan with the exception of Allegany, Fort Hill and Beall high schools. They will be included in the program the following year, Mrs. Eaton said.

The prices for meals will remain the same, 30 cents for all children above the first three grades, and 25 cents for those in the first three.

Paper Issues Warning

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet navy newspaper Sovetsky Flot, sounded a warning Tuesday to "Pentagon strategists" who have noted the importance of the Arctic Ocean as a "convenient area" for launching atomic attacks on the Soviet Union. The newspaper said these officials "should remember that the Arctic Ocean is not a U.S. inland lake."

Minister Asks Approval To Erect Highway Signs

A request by a Cumberland minister for permission to erect church service roadside signs on approaches to town was taken under advisement at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The request was made by Rev. Grant R. Walborn, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church on Wallace Street, for the signs to be placed on the northerly and southerly approaches of U. S. Route 220, the eastern and western approaches of U. S. Route 40 and on Oldtown Road.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum informed Council that policy for such requests should be established, explaining that there are a good number of such signs already up and that the privilege should be extended to all the churches.

Nuzum warned, however, that too many such signs could lead to a cluttered appearance, and that Council should decide if such a condition was advisable.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of finance, inquired if the matter was not one to be considered by the State Roads Commission, and was informed by Rev. Mr. Walborn that a similar request to that group had been rejected. He explained that the remaining alternative was approval by the city officials.

Mrs. Roeder made the motion to take the matter under advisement, after which the decision will be announced.

$40,896 Grossed By City In Parking Meter Receipts

Those coins dropped into approximately 400 parking meters grossed $40,896 during the fiscal year which ended June 30.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson said yesterday that the net from meters amounted to $33,219.37. This figure was arrived at after deducting the salary of the inspector, violations clerk, maintenance and replacement of the machines and similar expense.

Parking meters have been in operation for 21 years in Cumberland. The first 200 park-o-graphs were installed in September, 1936 and an additional 100 mark-time meters in May, 1937.

The first full year of operation — 1937-38 — the 300 meters brought in a gross of $19,741.37. The 300 meters originally installed cost $18,000 and this was paid for out of meter earnings without capital outlay by the city. This has been the same practice followed in subsequent years.

At one time, the number of meters in operation here exceeded 450 but for flood control purposes and other similar reasons, some have been removed, until a minimum of 400 is maintained, it was said.

Revenue from parking meters goes into the general operating fund of the city.

Firebug Confesses

LAVOYE-SUR-MEUSE, France (UPI) — Police said Tuesday that Andre Vabel, a 35-year-old laborer, had confessed he started three fires that destroyed 11 houses in this town and caused $250,000 damage. Authorities said Vabel gave up Monday and explained: "The little girls coming out from mass in their white dresses looked so pretty, I did it to amuse them."

Area Taxpayers Are Eligible For Refunds

Twelve area taxpayers are entitled to refunds from the 1959 Maryland income tax, however their checks are being held because of incorrect addresses.

Louis L. Goldstein, state comptroller, said checks were mailed to the taxpayers, but were returned by the Post Office with the advice "moved — left no forwarding address".

The group includes William L. Brown, RD 2, Box 104, Cumberland; George J. Heinrich, Ford Avenue, Cumberland; James J. Jones, 223 Union Street, Cumberland; Francis J. Lewis, Oakland; Donald E. Monnett, RD 3, Box 181, Cumberland.

Cecil B. Moore, Box 61, Lonaconing; Clara B. Ramus, RD 1, Box 138, Frostburg; Russell Rowan, Star Route, Oakland; Joe G. Shoemaker, Burlington, W. Va.; Henriet M. Stakem, 16 East Main Street, Lonaconing; Russell R. Wallizer, 1105 Bedford Street, Cumberland, and Marshall Yeider, RD 1, LaVale.

Goldstein said any person finding their name listed in the group should write: Maryland Income Tax Division, Box 671, Annapolis, Maryland. The person should give full name, former address, present address and social security number.

Mrs. Chaney Injured In Fall At Home

Mrs. Viola M. Chaney, of 17 Fourth Street was reported in "good" condition yesterday at Memorial Hospital where she was admitted early yesterday.

Hospital attaches said Mrs. Chaney sustained an injury to her right hip and leg in a fall at her home.

City Police, who were called to the residence at 3 a.m. yesterday, said Mrs. Chaney had fallen around 8 p. m. Monday and was unable to reach a telephone until yesterday.

Police had to break a window in the home to gain entrance. The woman was taken to Memorial Hospital by ambulance.

Mrs. Chaney owns and operates Chaney's Cigar Store on North Centre Street.

City Council Receives Complaints About Condition Of Frederick Street

A number of complaints of street conditions were voiced at the meeting of the Mayor and Council Monday, with one of the complainants also inquiring as to the time limitation for the presentation of a petition calling for a referendum on the city's new street paving ordinance.

L. V. Lowery, 714 Frederick Street, read a number of prepared questions on several matters, but spoke mostly about the condition of Frederick Street northward from the 700-block of the thoroughfare.

A frequent spokesman at council meetings, Lowery also asked how much longer he had to obtain signatures on petitions which are being circulated, calling for a referendum on the paving ordinance. He was informed that the petitions with the required number of names must be submitted within 40 days of the passage of the ordinance.

To be effective, the petitions must carry 20 per cent of the city's approximately 12,000 registered voters. Lowery indicated that he expected to have the required number of names before the deadline, September 7.

Lowery engaged in a verbal battle with City Attorney William R. Carscaden, Mayor J. Edwin Keech and Commissioner G. Ray Light.

C. R. Weatherholt, Michigan Avenue, who also appeared at last Monday's council meeting, asked of the possibility of having Michigan Avenue light-surfaced. He pointed out that the street was down to grade, that he and other residents of the street had installed curbing but that the city was permitting the surface to deteriorate.

Gordon Griffin of Wempe Drive, appeared before council again to demand correction of what has been called an open sewer problem in that area. He said reports that no problem exists are merely "propaganda" and promised to return before council "three years if necessary" to get the condition corrected.

Fred H. Anderson, local attorney, asked council to reconsider the plan to abolish tax exemption on farm land within the city limits. He said h represented land owners on Bedford and Valley roads who do not receive city services. They would be willing to pay city taxes if the city would provide services, particularly water and water pressure, so the land could be developed for sale.

Robert Norris, 517 South Street, protested and presented a petition against the water backing up since start of construction on the Industrial Boulevard. Council said a city engineer would make a check and report.

WALTHAM ABBEY, England (UPI)—The government Tuesday asked a magistrate to give it 14 days time to pay a $2.80 fine. The court fined the government for permitting a ministry of supply employe to use a government-owned bicycle with defective brakes. The defense attorney for the ministry asked for a two-week grace period because "it might take that time" to cut through the red tape involved in getting the money.

Demonstration Is Slated For Cafeteria Managers

With school only a month away, the cafeteria department of the Allegany County Board of Education is moving ahead with the start of the hot lunch program.

Mrs. Gladys Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias, said Saturday, August 26, all school cafeteria managers will attend a demonstration on preparation of various foods by a nationally known expert in her field.

Miss Gertrude Eckstine, of Standard Brands, will show various ways of using gelatines and puddings in school menus.

Then on September 3 the managers and head cooks will meet at the Board of Education building for the final pre-school briefing on the new system to be adopted this year.

Mrs. Eaton said this year menus will be the same in all schools. Previously each manager made out her menu, and it was checked for nutritional content by Mrs. Eaton. Each noon meal must contain half the daily nutritional requirement for a growing child.

Now, Mrs. Eaton said, the menus for a month will be prepared by herself and five cafeteria managers. Each day each school in the county, except the three large high schools, must serve the same meal.

Each manager will be called in twice a year to serve on the board that makes up the meals.

The new system has many advantages, Mrs. Eaton pointed out. The main one is that there is a distinct advantage when it comes to buying food on a large scale.

In addition to listing the food on the daily menu, the recipes for the various servings are included on the master sheet distributed to each school.

The first meal will be served on Friday, September 11.

All schools will follow the master menu plan with the exception of Allegany, Fort Hill and Beall high schools. They will be included in the program the following year, Mrs. Eaton said.

The prices for meals will remain the same, 30 cents for all children above the first three grades, and 25 cents for those in the first three.

Minister Asks Approval To Erect Highway Signs

A request by a Cumberland minister for permission to erect church service roadside signs on approaches to town was taken under advisement at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The request was made by Rev. Grant R. Walborn, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church on Wallace Street, for the signs to be placed on the northerly and southerly approaches of U. S. Route 220, the eastern and western approaches of U. S. Route 40 and on Oldtown Road.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum informed Council that policy for such requests should be established, explaining that there are a good number of such signs already up and that the privilege should be extended to all the churches.

Nuzum warned, however, that too many such signs could lead to a cluttered appearance, and that Council should decide if such a condition was advisable.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of finance, inquired if the matter was not one to be considered by the State Roads Commission, and was informed by Rev. Mr. Walborn that a similar request to that group had been rejected. He explained that the remaining alternative was approval by the city officials.

Mrs. Roeder made the motion to take the matter under advisement, after which the decision will be announced.

Long Outlines Activities For New City Engineer

Commissioner John J. Long says the hiring of a new assistant engineer for streets, parks and planning fulfills an urgent need in the Street Department.

Long released a list of duties which will be performed by Carl Guy Rickard Jr., 34, of Pittsburgh, who was named to the post Monday by the Mayor and Council.

Of major importance, Long said, are that the new engineer will give administrative supervision over streets, alleys and parks; plan all maintenance work done by personnel on streets and alley; make a study of condition of all streets and alleys and report them to the commissioner of streets and public property; be responsible for efficient handling of all matters in connection with maintenance, repair and construction of streets and alleys and will plan and design new streets and alleys.

In addition, Rickard will make a study of the workload of employes and present recommendations to the commissioner. He is also to make a study of the economy of various matters coming under his jurisdiction and make a report and recommendation to the commissioner. He will establish a system of perpetual inventories of materials, tools and supplies; allocate and supervise employes under his jurisdiction; and perform any additional duties that may arise and be assigned to him by the Mayor and City Council.

Should Rickard live in a city-owned house his salary would be $6,500 a year but if he provides his own living facilities the salary is $7,000. He is to be reimbursed for moving expenses and be furnished a car for city business only. He will have an office with Sanitary Engineer Franklin J Blaney and also a location at the city street warehouse.

All expenses in connection with the new engineer will be charged to the streets and alleys appropriation.

Long Outlines Activities For New City Engineer

Commissioner John J. Long says the hiring of a new assistant engineer for streets, parks and planning fulfills an urgent need in the Street Department.

Long released a list of duties which will be performed by Carl Guy Rickard Jr., 34, of Pittsburgh, who was named to the post Monday by the Mayor and Council.

Of major importance, Long said, are that the new engineer will give administrative supervision over streets, alleys and parks; plan all maintenance work done by personnel on streets and alley; make a study of condition of all streets and alleys and report them to the commissioner of streets and public property; be responsible for efficient handling of all matters in connection with maintenance, repair and construction of streets and alleys and will plan and design new streets and alleys.

In addition, Rickard will make a study of the workload of employes and present recommendations to the commissioner. He is also to make a study of the economy of various matters coming under his jurisdiction and make a report and recommendation to the commissioner. He will establish a system of perpetual inventories of materials, tools and supplies; allocate and supervise employes under his jurisdiction; and perform any additional duties that may arise and be assigned to him by the Mayor and City Council.

Should Rickard live in a city-owned house his salary would be $6,500 a year but if he provides his own living facilities the salary is $7,000. He is to be reimbursed for moving expenses and be furnished a car for city business only. He will have an office with Sanitary Engineer Franklin J Blaney and also a location at the city street warehouse.

All expenses in connection with the new engineer will be charged to the streets and alleys appropriation.

Joyce Billmeyer Honored At Pre-Nuptial Shower

Miss Patricia Wehman entertained with a kitchen shower and pre-nuptial party in compliment to Miss Joyce Billmeyer. It was held Saturday evening at her home, 4 Silver Street, Ridgeley.

Miss Billmeyer, daughter of Mrs. Arie E. Stein, 188 Main Street, Ridgeley, is to become the bride of Robert S. Bradley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradley, 20 Perry Street, Ridgeley, September 18. The ceremony will be solemnized at 7 p. m. in Calvary Methodist Church.

A wedding reception will be given by the Women's Society of Christian Service of Calvary Church, in the social hall of the church, following the ceremony.

A white sprinkling can with white streamers, to which were tied various kitchen utensils, was suspended above the shower gifts, which were arranged on a table decorated in blue with white ribbons. The bridal motif was carried out in a false ceiling of white crepe paper streamers and white wedding bells. It was repeated in the three-tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride with white umbrella, centering the table. White artificial flowers, tipped in gold, extended from the cake to candelabra of white tapers at either end of the table. Garden flowers were used throughout the house.

Various games pertaining to the kitchen were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Mary Nield, Mrs. LaVonne Davis of Keyser; Miss Sandra McFarland and Mrs. Shirley Cutchell. Other guests were Mrs. Lois Lease, Pittsburgh, cousin of the bride-elect; Mrs. Verna Skidmore, Mrs. Edgar Duer, Miss Bonnie Weakley, Miss Donna Preaskorn, Mrs. Edna Nelson, Mrs. Marilyn Logsdon, Miss Bonnie Peck, Miss Lorraine Hornick and Miss Karen Teters.

Gigantic Power Failure Snarls New York City For Many Hours

NEW YORK (AP)—A gigantic power failure, worst of its kind in New York's history, Monday knocked out service to some 500 square blocks of homes, apartments, hospitals, museums and business establishments.

The break was confined to the area on both sides of Central Park where 500,000 persons reside. But its effects extended to the far reaches of the Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn.

The Consolidated Edison Co. threw 10,000 repairmen into the area.

The company first estimated it could restore service by early in the evening, but later said it could not end the shortage before midnight.

Millions of people were caught in snarlups that grew out of the power failure. The misery of 89-degree heat and murderous humidity was compounded by tie-ups above and below the blistering streets of the city.

Subway service on the Independent line—fastest and finest in the city—was halted completely in midtown for a time. When it resumed, trains inched along, motormen guided by lantern signals from sentinels afoot in the dark tunnels. This cut service by half during the rush hour, creating vast underground jams of steaming humanity.

Hospital patients were operated on by surgeons working beneath emergency lights. Iron lungs were operated manually to keep imprisoned victims alive.

Traffic lights went out, leaving bewildered motorists without guidance at some of the busiest intersections in the world.

Elevators stranded people between floors when the power went off.

The burdensome heat was the cause of the mess. Demands on Con Ed's power network burned out seven feeder lines. This so increased the burden on 13 other feeder lines in the Hellgate network that they had to be shut down lest irreparable damage result.

The break came shortly before 3 p.m.

The affected area stretched from 59th to 110th Sts. west of Central Park to the Hudson River, and from 74th to 110th Sts. east of the park to the East River.

It encompasses some of the stateliest apartment buildings in the city, some of its finest restaurants, most of its museums and several of its hospitals.

At Doctor's Hospital, candles and flashlights provided the only illumination throughout the 15-story building.

Police and fire departments supplied emergency generators to Mount Sinai Hospital. Nurses kept an iron lung going manually until it could be connected with an emergency power source.

At Mount Sinai, Lenox Hill and Doctors hospitals, all operations were postponed unless they were absolutely necessary.

France Runs Test Of Sympathy In U.S.

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

France seems to be choosing this time, when the Western Entente is particularly in need of a united front in vital negotiations with the Soviet Union, to run a test of the natural reservoir of sympathy for her in the United States.

After World War I, France occupied a place as the world's third power only after the sacrifice of a large part of her manpower and through the aid of the United States and Britain. She then displayed considerable jealousy of the rising international importance of the United States, which previously had played little part in the affairs of Europe.

After World War II, and a long period of impotence, France was restored to what was then a purely artificial rank among the Big Four.

Despite great sacrifice, she lost her position in the Orient.

She lost her voice in the Middle East, and has been hard put to keep it in Africa.

To maintain her Algerian position, she was forced to deploy most of her military strength in Africa, and so weakened her key position in NATO and the defenses of Western Europe.

Not being a member of the atomic club and having been heavily infested by communism, French military development has suffered from Anglo-American security measures.

The rapid rise of West Germany economically, coupled with rearmament and French cession of the Saar in a magnanimous gesture toward Europe unity, have all militated against France.

It is only natural, then, that she should attempt to maintain her relative position in Western councils by whatever means are left. And it is a part of the deGaulle character.

President Charles de Gaulle has been lukewarm toward negotiations with the Soviets throughout the Berlin crisis, and is especially so toward conferences at which she is not represented, such as the atomic conference at Geneva and the forthcoming Eisenhower talks.

However, though it is possible that France has been victimized by circumstance, it is not true that she has been pushed around by Britain and the United States, as Foreign Minister Maurice Debre implies.

If she has not had their full support it is not for lack of love for France, or because of a desire to replace her in Africa, as some Frenchmen charge. It is because of lack of confidence in her policy.

Perhaps France has not been helped by the failure of Britain and the United States to come up with a policy of constructive help in a peculiarly delicate situation.

But its too bad that she has to test American good will at a time of serious East-West stress.

He's Invisible

LONDON (AP)—A startled police inspector encountered a naked man trudging along a side street off the crowded Strand here.

"It's quite all right, old boy—I'm invisible," the man told the inspector. The inspector hustled him off to a hospital for observation.

Walks, Yards To Be Checked In Piedmont

Owners Will Get Work Orders

PIEDMONT — Mayor Rodney Baker and James Bissett, street commissioner, will make an inspection of all sidewalks and yards where weeds should be cut today at 7 p. m.

It was also decided at the regular meeting of Mayor Baker and City Council Monday evening that where necessary work is needed on pavements and the weeds cut, the owners will be given the specified time according to law to carry out the town's ordinances.

It was ordered that a $500 U.S. Government H Bond be purchased from the money received from the sale of the former city building. The building was sold to Abe Feldstein of Cumberland for $14,427.

Ten $1,000 bonds were purchased last October and with the new bond will make $15,000 in that account.

This money is for the construction of the buying of a new building for the use of a city building.

Representatives of the Walter, Woody and Heimerdinger, bond brokers of Cincinnati and of the Robert T. Regester Engineering firm of Baltimore, will confer with the Mayor and Council Tuesday evening, Sept. 8.

The engineering company which has made the survey for the town attaching to the waste treatment sewage plant being built at Westernport by the Upper Potomac River Commission for the principal use of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Piedmont, Westernport and Luke are expected to avail themselves of the opportunity to connect to the plant.

The bonding company will sell the bonds for the town.

The Mayor called attention to trucks making store deliveries ignoring red lines. He instructed the police not to issue any more warnings but to bring them before the mayor for trial.

Luke Seeking School Building

LUKE—The Town of Luke yesterday requested the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to turn over the abandoned school building in that community for use as a Post Office and other town activities.

It was stated the building could be used for Boy Scout and Girl Scout meetings and for various community enterprises.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said the Board of Education has not deeded either the Luke school or the old Hammond Street School property in Westernport to the county board.

After this legal procedure has been followed the county board will ask bids on the structures if they are not needed for any county function.

The Town of Barton also inquired if the county would furnish shale to the community at cost. The town has its own truck to haul the material. The letter of inquiry was signed by Mrs. Margaret Devlin, town clerk.

The commissioners instructed Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, to make the necessary arrangements with the Barton officials.

Participate In Fair Show

Ice Skating In August Featured In Fair Show

Ice skating under a January moon is a pastime to which hundreds throughout the Tri-State area look forward almost as soon as the frost appears on the pumpkins. But few local devotees of the bladed shoes ever expected to see outdoor ice skating in the sweltering heat of mid-August.

What appears on the surface as an impossibility has turned into a four-day reality at this week's local fair where a "carnival on ice" is being presented as featured entertainment.

A peek behind the scenes reveals how such an unseasonable event is possible. The 20-by-30-foot area on which the skaters perform is located on a platform on that portion of the Fairground racetrack facing the grandstand. Ice is kept frozen solid to a thickness of three inches by five three-ton converted air conditioners with freon gas used as a refrigerant.

The air conditioners run 24 hours a day. In fact, they've been in operation constantly ever since the show started to set up last Friday and they will be running until the attraction ends with Thursday night's presentation.

Two tons of crushed ice are placed in the 20-by-30 box as a "starter." Then the water is poured on top to the proper depth. The converted air conditioners do the rest of the work.

The ice is kept covered to guard against the direct rays of the sun during the day, although it will be subjected to "Ole Sol" in all his power tomorrow afternoon when a matinee will be presented.

Ray Beaudet, who heads the show, says the ice carnival plays outdoors only two months of the year, mostly at fairs. Indoors, the skaters can be seen in coliseums, stadia, arenas and night clubs.

A producer of ice shows for ten years, the 46-year-old Beaudet says he is taking a troupe to the Far East for five months, leaving the States December 15. The big stop will be at the Philippine Exposition which will run for 40 days. It will be essentially the same show that is playing here, plus some added stars. The itinerary also includes stops at Bangkok, Hong Kong, Formosa.

Beaudet, in show business since a youngster and, in such, has traveled from coast to coast, says the setting at Cumberland's Fairgrounds is by far the most scenic outdoor spot he has ever played. "This place is absolutely breath-taking," the veteran showman declared as he surveyed the Fairgo backdrop that is Knobley Mountain.

Ken Sullivan, a native of Staten Island, N. Y., and a former radio man is the master of ceremonies for the show. Among the featured performers are Avey O'Connell, a Canadian girl, who does a ballet number on ice; John Lee, a Middle Atlantic skating champion; Angelita, from Switzerland, who appeared on the Ed Sullivan television show; Bud Corlell and his wife, Rose, who do a whip and rope act in front of the stage.

At the recent Chenango County Fair in Norwich, N. Y., this act was given credit for attracting a record-breaking crowd to the week-long exposition.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Summer clothes call for a small waistline—that means exercise!

In The Middle

If you over-bulge in the waistline department, you look as if you are too heavy all over. And, it spoils any chance of wearing fashion's latest that has brought the waistline back into focus. Not to mention the bikini that bares the middle!

To streamline your middle you need a well-planned schedule that includes daily exercise. Your figure problem can only be conquered by your own effort. Just give it a try. You'll also find you feel better, more relaxed and tire less easily. So, more than just your figure will benefit.

Exercises taken before bedtime will work wonders in trimming down bulges. The only tools you will need are a full-length mirror, a measuring tape, a bathroom scales and the same spot to do your exercises each night.

Some like to turn on some music when they are exercising. If it's easier to work in rhythm... then turn it on.

To give the figure that necessary waistline indentation, here's a real tried-and-true exercise. Lie flat on the floor with your arms straight out from shoulders and flat against floor, palms down. Keeping your back flat draw your knees up until they touch your chest. Keep your legs together! Now, fling your legs to the left but be sure your shoulders are flat against the floor and your legs in a bent position. Thump the legs against the floor. Draw your knees up to touch the left elbow. Now — return to your original position and do the exercise to the right.

Do this to music and to the count of three: ONE—legs slap floor to left; TWO—draw knees up to touch left elbow, THREE—knees back to chest. Then one-two-three with right.

In the beginning do this exercise only two or three times since it is quite strenuous. As you get slimmer you can work up to 10 times daily. Not only will the fat roll off around the middle, but the upper hips as well.

Another exercise of the same vintage and value requires that you sit on the floor with your legs as widespread as possible. Put your arms out at your sides, shoulder level. Then swing hard and downward with the right arm and the whole upper torso until the fingers of the right hand touch the left foot. Then, back to the original position. Now the left arm, swinging to the right foot.

Bend to music . . . waist up, including neck and head. Bend to keep with the swing of your arm.

This one you can start off with ten times and gradually work up to any number you like, as your figure gets trimmer.

Now—go to it!

Walks, Yards To Be Checked In Piedmont

Owners Will Get Work Orders

PIEDMONT — Mayor Rodney Baker and James Bissett, street commissioner, will make an inspection of all sidewalks and yards where weeds should be cut today at 7 p. m.

It was also decided at the regular meeting of Mayor Baker and City Council Monday evening that where necessary work is needed on pavements and the weeds cut, the owners will be given the specified time according to law to carry out the town's ordinances.

It was ordered that a $500 U.S. Government H Bond be purchased from the money received from the sale of the former city building. The building was sold to Abe Feldstein of Cumberland for $14,427.

Ten $1,000 bonds were purchased last October and with the new bond will make $15,000 in that account.

This money is for the construction of the buying of a new building for the use of a city building.

Representatives of the Walter, Woody and Heimerdinger, bond brokers of Cincinnati and of the Robert T. Regester Engineering firm of Baltimore, will confer with the Mayor and Council Tuesday evening, Sept. 8.

The engineering company which has made the survey for the town attaching to the waste treatment sewage plant being built at Westernport by the Upper Potomac River Commission for the principal use of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Piedmont, Westernport and Luke are expected to avail themselves of the opportunity to connect to the plant.

The bonding company will sell the bonds for the town.

The Mayor called attention to trucks making store deliveries ignoring red lines. He instructed the police not to issue any more warnings but to bring them before the mayor for trial.

Luke Seeking School Building

LUKE—The Town of Luke yesterday requested the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to turn over the abandoned school building in that community for use as a Post Office and other town activities.

It was stated the building could be used for Boy Scout and Girl Scout meetings and for various community enterprises.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said the Board of Education has not deeded either the Luke school or the old Hammond Street School property in Westernport to the county board.

After this legal procedure has been followed the county board will ask bids on the structures if they are not needed for any county function.

The Town of Barton also inquired if the county would furnish shale to the community at cost. The town has its own truck to haul the material. The letter of inquiry was signed by Mrs. Margaret Devlin, town clerk.

The commissioners instructed Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, to make the necessary arrangements with the Barton officials.

Return From Camp

MT. SAVAGE—Eighteen members of the Youth Fellowship of St. George's Episcopal Church have returned home after attending camp at Nemacolin, Deep Creek, this past week. Mrs. Raymond Himmelwright acted as chaperon to the group.

Participate In Fair Show

Ice Skating In August Featured In Fair Show

Ice skating under a January moon is a pastime to which hundreds throughout the Tri-State area look forward almost as soon as the frost appears on the pumpkins. But few local devotees of the bladed shoes ever expected to see outdoor ice skating in the sweltering heat of mid-August.

What appears on the surface as an impossibility has turned into a four-day reality at this week's local fair where a "carnival on ice" is being presented as featured entertainment.

A peek behind the scenes reveals how such an unseasonable event is possible. The 20-by-30-foot area on which the skaters perform is located on a platform on that portion of the Fairground racetrack facing the grandstand. Ice is kept frozen solid to a thickness of three inches by five three-ton converted air conditioners with freon gas used as a refrigerant.

The air conditioners run 24 hours a day. In fact, they've been in operation constantly ever since the show started to set up last Friday and they will be running until the attraction ends with Thursday night's presentation.

Two tons of crushed ice are placed in the 20-by-30 box as a "starter." Then the water is poured on top to the proper depth. The converted air conditioners do the rest of the work.

The ice is kept covered to guard against the direct rays of the sun during the day, although it will be subjected to "Ole Sol" in all his power tomorrow afternoon when a matinee will be presented.

Ray Beaudet, who heads the show, says the ice carnival plays outdoors only two months of the year, mostly at fairs. Indoors, the skaters can be seen in coliseums, stadia, arenas and night clubs.

A producer of ice shows for ten years, the 46-year-old Beaudet says he is taking a troupe to the Far East for five months, leaving the States December 15. The big stop will be at the Philippine Exposition which will run for 40 days. It will be essentially the same show that is playing here, plus some added stars. The itinerary also includes stops at Bangkok, Hong Kong, Formosa.

Beaudet, in show business since a youngster and, in such, has traveled from coast to coast, says the setting at Cumberland's Fairgrounds is by far the most scenic outdoor spot he has ever played. "This place is absolutely breath-taking," the veteran showman declared as he surveyed the Fairgo backdrop that is Knobley Mountain.

Ken Sullivan, a native of Staten Island, N. Y., and a former radio man is the master of ceremonies for the show. Among the featured performers are Avey O'Connell, a Canadian girl, who does a ballet number on ice; John Lee, a Middle Atlantic skating champion; Angelita, from Switzerland, who appeared on the Ed Sullivan television show; Bud Corlell and his wife, Rose, who do a whip and rope act in front of the stage.

At the recent Chenango County Fair in Norwich, N. Y., this act was given credit for attracting a record-breaking crowd to the week-long exposition.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Summer clothes call for a small waistline—that means exercise!

In The Middle

If you over-bulge in the waistline department, you look as if you are too heavy all over. And, it spoils any chance of wearing fashion's latest that has brought the waistline back into focus. Not to mention the bikini that bares the middle!

To streamline your middle you need a well-planned schedule that includes daily exercise. Your figure problem can only be conquered by your own effort. Just give it a try. You'll also find you feel better, more relaxed and tire less easily. So, more than just your figure will benefit.

Exercises taken before bedtime will work wonders in trimming down bulges. The only tools you will need are a full-length mirror, a measuring tape, a bathroom scales and the same spot to do your exercises each night.

Some like to turn on some music when they are exercising. If it's easier to work in rhythm... then turn it on.

To give the figure that necessary waistline indentation, here's a real tried-and-true exercise. Lie flat on the floor with your arms straight out from shoulders and flat against floor, palms down. Keeping your back flat draw your knees up until they touch your chest. Keep your legs together! Now, fling your legs to the left but be sure your shoulders are flat against the floor and your legs in a bent position. Thump the legs against the floor. Draw your knees up to touch the left elbow. Now — return to your original position and do the exercise to the right.

Do this to music and to the count of three: ONE—legs slap floor to left; TWO—draw knees up to touch left elbow, THREE—knees back to chest. Then one-two-three with right.

In the beginning do this exercise only two or three times since it is quite strenuous. As you get slimmer you can work up to 10 times daily. Not only will the fat roll off around the middle, but the upper hips as well.

Another exercise of the same vintage and value requires that you sit on the floor with your legs as widespread as possible. Put your arms out at your sides, shoulder level. Then swing hard and downward with the right arm and the whole upper torso until the fingers of the right hand touch the left foot. Then, back to the original position. Now the left arm, swinging to the right foot.

Bend to music . . . waist up, including neck and head. Bend to keep with the swing of your arm.

This one you can start off with ten times and gradually work up to any number you like, as your figure gets trimmer.

Now—go to it!

Loar Presides At Frostburg Council Meet

FROSTBURG — Finance Commissioner Herbert Loar presided at Monday night's City Council meeting in the absence of Mayor Joseph James. Various projects were discussed.

Bills were approved for the corporate fund in the amount of $6,243.32, and for the water fund $1,212.09.

William Preston, street commissioner, reported the bridge at the south end of Grant Street, giving access to several properties, had been repaired. He pointed out that work is progressing on the regrading and repaving of Mt. Pleasant Street extended, and that due to a new sewer line being laid he will pave the street as far as Jenkins Street this year. This will give refill a chance to settle and the balance of the paving will be completed next spring.

James Kenney, water commissioner, asked and was granted permission to secure prices on a furnace for the caretaker's home at Piney Run Dam. He said a meeting had been scheduled with residents of Hope Road, who live outside the municipal limits and use city water, tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

A plan will be discussed for continuing service and the forming of a company to maintain lines and supervise the collection of bills.

William Goebel, police commissioner, stated that a survey is being made of traffic conditions on Main Street by the State Safety Commission, and that a report would be on hand soon regarding the results. He stated that a phone, or call box, is being installed on Main Street for use of the police. A tear gas gun with shells will also be ordered for the department.

Goebel asked Commissioner Preston to repaint the traffic control box that was used several years ago at the corner of Main and Water streets. He said that the state safety representative had recommended that the box be reinstalled for use when an officer is manually controlling the lights at that intersection.

Margaret Kidwell, assistant city clerk, read a letter from Mrs. Dorothy L. Kreiling, director of the Girl Scout Day Camp held recently at the city swimming pool, thanking the city for cooperation and erecting the pavilion which gave added protection from rain.

A request for a permit to operate a junk yard near the city garage was tabled until City Attorney Edward Ryan can be consulted as to whether or not the new ordinance controlling such establishments had gone into effect.

W.Va. Treasurer Expected To Run For Governor

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia State Treasurer Orel J. Skeen Tuesday became the second Democrat to edge to the brink of an out-and-out announcement that he would be a candidate for governor in next May's primary.

Skeen told newsmen in Wheeling Monday that "in all probability" he would seek his party's nomination.

House Speaker Harry R. Pauley, Iaeger, McDowell County, announced last month that he would be a candidate for either the Democratic gubernatorial or 5th district congressional nomination.

State Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron is also expected to make a formal announcement of his candidacy in the near future. He previously indicated that he would seek the state's highest office.

Another possibility is Milton J. Ferguson of Wayne. Ferguson lost in the 1956 primary election to Robert H. Mollohan of Fairmont. Mollohan was defeated in the general election by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

Skeen said those who have encouraged him to run "have no axes to grind and their primary interest is in a governor that would be a servant of all and a captive of none."

He noted that in 1956 he led the Democratic ticket by some 1,500 votes in Ohio County alone.

No Republicans have formally announced their candidacy. The late Charleston mayor John T. Copenhaver was the most prominently mentioned.

Voting In LaVale

This was the scene as LaVale area residents signed up last night at LaVale Fire House to vote on a proposed fire tax for the suburban area. The tax proposal was defeated by a two-to-one margin of the more than 900 voters who cast ballots.

Public Health Nurse Resigns Position

Mrs. Nellie Johnson Taylor, R. N., 311 Pulaski Street, has resigned from the Allegany County Health Department, effective Friday.

Mrs. Taylor has been serving as a public health nurse, assigned to the Flintstone-Oldtown area for the past year.

She is a graduate of Sacred Heart Hospital School of Nursing and served there and at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant before joining the Health Department staff.

Largest living starfish is the sunflower starfish of the North Pacific coast, which reaches a diameter of two feet or more.

W.Va. Treasurer Expected To Run For Governor

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia State Treasurer Orel J. Skeen Tuesday became the second Democrat to edge to the brink of an out-and-out announcement that he would be a candidate for governor in next May's primary.

Skeen told newsmen in Wheeling Monday that "in all probability" he would seek his party's nomination.

House Speaker Harry R. Pauley, Iaeger, McDowell County, announced last month that he would be a candidate for either the Democratic gubernatorial or 5th district congressional nomination.

State Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron is also expected to make a formal announcement of his candidacy in the near future. He previously indicated that he would seek the state's highest office.

Another possibility is Milton J. Ferguson of Wayne. Ferguson lost in the 1956 primary election to Robert H. Mollohan of Fairmont. Mollohan was defeated in the general election by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

Skeen said those who have encouraged him to run "have no axes to grind and their primary interest is in a governor that would be a servant of all and a captive of none."

He noted that in 1956 he led the Democratic ticket by some 1,500 votes in Ohio County alone.

No Republicans have formally announced their candidacy. The late Charleston mayor John T. Copenhaver was the most prominently mentioned.

Voting In LaVale

This was the scene as LaVale area residents signed up last night at LaVale Fire House to vote on a proposed fire tax for the suburban area. The tax proposal was defeated by a two-to-one margin of the more than 900 voters who cast ballots.

Catching Up With The Arthropods

Ants, horseshoe crabs, bees and caterpillars are arthropods. In their compound eyes there is a reaction that makes it possible for them to guide themselves with polar light when the sun is not visible.

The arthropod needs only a small patch of blue sky for his "light compass." It is a delicate device that human navigators would like to have, particularly for use in polar zones. There the magnetic compass is defective, and as winter comes on there is a long gap between the setting of the sun and the appearance of the first star. The arthropod sensitivity to polar light, if it could be reproduced in a man-made instrument, would be a boon to navigators of ships and aircraft.

The animal kingdom has already furnished man with much of what he knows about the functioning of his own body. Observation of non-human creatures has provided important clues in the study of disease and psychology. And didn't the birds teach man to fly?

Having wrested from nature so many of her deepest secrets, there can be little doubt that science will find a way to reproduce the arthropod "light compass." Beside atomic energy and radar the problem seems almost elemental.

And yet its solution, like the other great achievements of science, must rest on patient observation and interminable experiment. The willingness to undertake such labor and the ability to draw the right conclusions from the results are what make man superior to the rest of the life which teems about him.

At a time when in matters political and economic man doesn't seem too bright, this is a comforting thought.

The Inventor

Nixon Found Khrushchev Drank Little Vodka During Recent Visit

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Vice President Nixon invited a few key Senators to a private luncheon the other day and confided his personal impressions of Nikita Khrushchev.

After swearing the Senators to secrecy, Nixon told how he vowed not to get a single vodka ahead of the Soviet premier, in order to keep his mind clear for their talks.

"During our Sunday afternoon together," Nixon reported, "I made up my mind I would drink only what he did and no more. We didn't drink anything until the business was over.

"It would be a mistake," the Vice President concluded, "to think that Khrushchev is drinking too much vodka."

Nixon said the Russian leader was a different man in private than in public.

"Like a lot of us politicians, when he gets in front of a big crowd he can't help but ham it up," observed Nixon. "But in private, he is very controlled and well informed erroneously informed but informed. He obviously has received a lot of bad information about us. He thinks our people don't like the system and the leaders they live under and are waiting to revolt. Apparently he believes that."

The Vice President was startled to find that Khrushchev had editorials on his desk that had been printed in influential American newspapers the previous day.

"He read them even before I got to see them," said Nixon. He noted that the Kremlin boss was "sensitive" to American editorial opinion.

Byrd Worries About Red Taxes

During their private talks, Khrushchev was alternately harsh and conciliatory, which Nixon took to be deliberate, hot-and-cold tactics. Khrushchev was boastful about Russia's "superior" missiles, which he tossed verbally around the world, telling how few it would take to knock out London, Paris, and New York.

The most disturbing problem connected with Khrushchev's forthcoming visit was raised by Senator Harry Byrd, Virginia Democrat, who asked about the danger of some crackpot or malcontent taking a shot at the No. 1 Communist.

"My God!" declared Nixon, throwing up his hands, "That's what worries us the most!"

Earlier, the fiscal-minded Byrd unintentionally caused his colleagues to roar with laughter by asking the question that always seems to concern him most.

"What is the highest tax bracket they have on those rich people?" He asked Nixon about the Soviet upper crust.

After the laughter subsided, Nixon said he didn't know. But another Khrushchev interviewer, Minnesota's Senator Hubert Humphrey, volunteered that it was 13 per cent.

Senator Mike Mansfield, Montana Democrat, asked why Cardinal Wyznski had refused to see Nixon in Warsaw.

The Vice President explained that Poland has "religious toleration" if not religious freedom, and that the Communist government even subsidizes parochial schools.

"It might have been harmful to this delicate relationship for me to be in direct contact with the Cardinal," he said. He didn't mention that he had sought an audience with Cardinal Wyznski against the State Department's advice and that the Cardinal was the one who politely declined.

Not Much Democracy

Nixon said he was most impressed with the impact he made on factory workers when he stopped by to shake hands. He recalled the "tremendous look of amazement" on their faces when his identity was explained.

He said the Communist leaders ignore the common people, thinking in terms of efficiency instead of human values. The managerial class ride in Cadillacs with the shades pulled down and never bother with the common working people.

"They think in terms of production figures and efficiency," observed Nixon. "They don't think in human terms."

Describing the reaction of the factory workers over meeting the American Vice President, he said: "Here was a big guy in the American government who had come down to their level and shaken hands with the people. At first their faces would look startled, then a pleased expression would break out."

Nixon said Khrushchev "was out to clobber me" the first couple days, then settled down and became more friendly.

After the confidential luncheon, even Nixon's most outspoken Democratic critics agreed he had increased in stature, that he had done a competent job.

Labor Bill's House Passage Was Epochal Event

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Something of epochal importance happened when the House of Representatives last Friday passed a law aimed at stopping abuses of power by labor unions. It was not merely on the merits of the issue that the vote is a notable record, but it was a demonstration of the power of public opinion to cut through party lines.

The nation had given to the Democratic Party in the 1958 election overwhelming control of the House of Representatives. Yet the President, a Republican, was able to persuade the people that their representatives in the House should support the measure he favored. Not so long ago some writers were cavalierly dismissing Mr. Eisenhower as a "weak" executive because, not being eligible under the constitution to be a candidate for reelection, he couldn't influence Congress by promises of appointments and other favors. But this was a superficial view. It was based on a failure to read carefully the pages of American history.

For presidents like Theodore Roosevelt led even in the second term because they were able to sway public opinion. Mr. Eisenhower, precisely because he cannot run for office again, is looked upon as disinterested. For nearly two years now he has insisted that there must be reform legislation to curb abuses in the labor-management field. The Democratic Party-controlled Congress, influenced to no small extent by Northern Democrats who are closely affiliated with labor unions, was hesitant to enact any laws dealing effectively with the abuses exposed by the Senate's investigating committee. A plainly dilatory attitude was manifested by the Democratic leadership in the Senate, which acted in 1958 only when it was apparent that it was too late to get the measure through the House at that session.

But the President, counselled by Secretary of Labor Mitchell, insisted on keeping the issue before the people. A bill was drawn up and presented at the start of the current session of Congress. It was prepared by the Secretary of Labor. Though Mr. Mitchell has been looked upon as somewhat inclined to be a partisan of the labor-union cause — especially because of his refusal to endorse wholeheartedly the right-to-work doctrine — he turned out to be a true friend of both labor and management by persistently urging that a measu be passed to deal with the flagrant abuses exposed by the McClellan committee.

The labor-union leaders who opposed the administration measures never made a bigger mistake. They failed to see that statesmanship really demanded their support of the reform measure. Instead, they cried out that the bill would hurt "legitimate unionism." This was like saying that legitimately operated unions could not function if certain abuses were corrected, and that the country had to pay the price of enduring indefinitely the hardships imposed by the criminal and racketeering element just because of the theoretical objections of other labor leaders.

Too many rank-and-file union members have held the same view. Unions, to them, are sacrosanct — a sort of supergovernment. Union officers wield the power to tax every employee in a plant and make him pay dues and assessments without his consent. Union officers determine that a worker must be fired if he refuses to join a union. Union officers decide whether dues money shall be used to help elect a party or a candidate that the worker himself may oppose. Many unions do not permit a secret ballot on vital issues.

Such absolutism has not yet run its course, but the bill passed last Friday by the House of Representatives, far from swinging the balance away from unions toward the employer, actually swings it away from the racketeering union leader or the craven employer toward the worker by preserving his civil rights.

The country owes a debt of gratitude to many Democrats from the South. It was they who joined with Northern Republicans in a coalition that has managed on other occasions, too, in the last several years to save America from the depredations of a radical and spendthrift bloc of so-called "liberals" who profess to be in favor of human rights but who actually vote to give monopoly powers to special groups which help them to win election with big campaign funds.

Efforts will be made by this same group to water down the labor-reform legislation just passed by the House. But the public will be alerted to the battle and, if the Senate fails to act, the Republicans will go to the country in 1960 with the best issue they have had in years. For the nation once saw laws passed to punish wicked corporations when they usurped power, and it will insist on the same treatment now for those who betray the workers by conducting autocratic unions and setting up one-man dictatorships which brazenly use methods that are plainly violative of individual rights.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jerry Ribnick

Bowling, America's fastest growing sport, is hard enough if you can see. How would it be if you were blind? You take the 12-foot walk on the approach, lift the 16-pound ball and throw it 60 feet toward the 10 pins. You don't know where the ball is going and what's more you don't even know your target.

Impossible? It isn't. So 48 blind bowlers have discovered in Houston, Texas, where a Mixed Blind League is now in its second year. The league originated over a cup of coffee when I interviewed Ann Baxter, a blind woman with courage. She is the wife of an executive of Hughes Oil Tool Co. Ann became blind following an accident while riding in a horse show at Madison Square Garden.

For years she was despondent (natural characteristic of the blind) and ready to give up. She felt her days in sports, her greatest joy, were over. Then she remembered how well she once did at bowling. "Why can't I still bowl?" she asked. She enlisted the aid of Mrs. Frances Shroyer of the Recreation Palace, who started her back along the bowling trail.

"It was disgusting at the start," Ann said. "I was ready to give up many times, but Frances insisted I continue."

When she started, Ann bowled around 30 or 40. A year later she was giving exhibitions throughout Texas. She currently holds a 138 average in two leagues where she is the only blind bowler competing.

It was Ann who suggested the idea of a blind bowling league. From the start the league was an overwhelming success. It ran 12 weeks. Fred Mcgee, operator of the Recreation Lanes, paid for the bowling. At the end of the season a party was held and the Houston Chronicle gave every blind member a trophy.

The real miracle was yet to come. Walter (Pop) Trimble of Baytown (a small city near Houston), had been blind 20 years of his life. One night he thought he saw an outline of the pins. It scared the nimble, grey-haired 59-year-old carpenter.

He visited his doctor next day and was amazed to hear that bowling, through a miracle, had relieved pressure on his eyes. "An opertion may help you regain your sight," the doctor said.

Walter's sightless eyes misted. It couldn't be. After all the years, and after scores of doctors had told him he would never see again, there still was a chance. I was in Walter's room when they took off the bandages.

I knew after watching the smile when he saw sunlight for the first time that God never forgets the unfortunate.

"Of course, the doctors say I'll never see perfectly again, but I thank God for this much," said Walter. "I have grandchildren I've never seen."

That was a year ago. Today Trimble works his trade as a carpenter in the Baytown area. The story doesn't end yet. This summer the Mixed Blind League was formed again, at the insistence of the Houston Lighthouse for the Blind. From the first group of 24 blind bowlers the list has grown until 48 blind bowlers are now hefting the ball, throwing it, waiting to listen to the long thunder of the ball on the alley, and the foamy crash of a strike.

They have a swell time every Thursday at the O. S. T. Lanes. Even the guide dogs seem to enjoy the bowling. And the idea is spreading. Blind leagues have now been formed in Austin, Dallas, Tulsa, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City.

Recently the Harris County Committee for Cripple' Children asked about starting a bowling league, patterned after the blind league. If the blind can bowl so well, why can't children in wheelchairs? At least they can see. They'll get their chance...

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Captive Nations

When Nixon and Khrushchev held their now famous debate in the American-style kitchen at the American Fair in Moscow, the cause for Khrushchev's unruly anger was that Congress had passed a joint resolution on July 17, providing for a "Captive Nations Week." The President approved the resolution the same day. Several times, during Nixon's visits with Khrushchev, the latter referred to the "captives" — his captives. After his anger, it struck him as funny. It is not so funny for millions of human beings.

The nations referred to in the resolution are as follows: Poland, Hungary, Lithuania, Ukraine, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Estonia, White Ruthenia, Rumania, East Germany, Bulgaria, Mainland China, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, North Korea, Albania, Idel-Ural, Tibet, Cossackia, Turkestan, North Viet-Nam, and others.

This is a long list of areas conquered by Soviet Russia, mainly during World War II and after. Some of them have been incorporated within the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics; others are so-called people's republics. It is a record of the imperialistic success of the Kremlin. The resolution further states:

". . . these submerged nations look to the United States, as the citadel of human freedom, for leadership in bringing about their liberation and independence and in restoring to them the enjoyment of their Christian, Jewish, Moslem, Buddhist, and other religious freedoms, and of their individual liberties . . ."

This resolution seems to have bothered Khrushchev more than any criticism that has been made of his brutality or rudeness because it is a wholly true statement of fact. Following the theories of Treitschke, Stalin set out to establish a number of satellite countries that would take the first brunt of war; furthermore, in these satellites first Kaganovich and then Khrushchev found a wealth of raw materials and manufacturing establishments which could be used in the development of a modern industrial complex, capable of fighting a war.

To Soviet Russia, the captive nations represent a Chinese Wall against the West. However, that wall is realistically rubble now that war must be conducted by air-borne bombs, rockets and missiles. Nevertheless, it has been characteristic of Russian history that what the Russians take, they never give up willingly. Russia has been like a rolling snow-ball, gathering size as it rolled on and on.

Men's memories are short. We, in America, forget, for instance, that the United States brought into existence the most progressive Slavic state, Czechoslovakia. It was the great friendship of three men, Woodrow Wilson, Professor Thomas G. Masaryk and Charles R. Crane that carved out this nation, liberated it from the Austro-Hungarian Empire and obtained its independence at the Paris Conference after World War I. Czechoslovakia became a democratic republic with Professor Thomas G. Masaryk as President and Dr. Eduard Benes as Prime Minister. Hitler seized this country on the ground that the Sudeten Germans (Bohemia) were ethnically Germans and therefore belonged to him. The Kremlin succeeded to Hitler's ownership. Czechoslovakia is now practically an integral part of Russia with no life of its own.

Americans were excited when Hitler marched into this peace-loving country of hard-working, energetic people. We are not excited today when Czechoslovakia is, for all practical purposes, a province of Soviet Russia. We are not excited about any outrage committed by Soviet Russia. We made a big noise about Genocide when it affected Hitler; we are silent about Genocide now that it affects Soviet Russia.

In fact, it has become fashionable to go to Russia. Those who do not go there are not "in." I cannot imagine what they are "in" or not "in" but they all went to Russia this Summer like bees swarming together. This Winter, we shall be hearing all about Russia from 10 day experts who saw the Red Square in Moscow, the Nevsky in Leningrad and whatever it is they can see in Kiev—possibly the ancient cathedral. They will all tell of the wonders of the one big department store in Moscow—something like Gimbels' basement. They will say that all Russians smile when they see Americans. It looks more like a belly-laugh watching the fools part with their money.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

President Eisenhower is chalking up an enviable record of achievements in the legislative field despite the predominantly Democratic make-up of Congress.

He has been victorious in most of his battles over appropriations, both for domestic government operations and in the foreign and military fields. Where he has had to employ his veto powers, Congress has sustained his view.

However, the foreign aid program is a horse of a different color. Mr. Eisenhower is very apt to lose a large part of his battle for an adequate program — in fact has all but lost it already.

Congress is in the act of cutting the size of his recommended foreign aid program for the 1960 fiscal year by more than $700 million, or 20 per cent. This is a cut deeper than the President feels he can tolerate, yet in this area his veto is powerless.

Should Congress carry through their economy intentions as now appears most likely, foreign aid will be the greatest defeat in the legislative field that President Eisenhower will suffer during the present session.

Food Requirements Of Children Vary Greatly

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many toddlers do not eat or need three large meals a day and often do not participate in more than two. The wise parent respects the smaller appetites of the child and will not force him to eat more than he wants.

There is a vast difference in the food requirements of boys and girls at different age levels. The essential proteins provided by meat, eggs, fish, and cheese are the same, regardless of age. As a result, these foods should not be omitted just because the youngster is drinking an ample amount of milk.

The successful mother avoids also the trap of preparing different foods for each child. Dr. H. D. Lynch and Dr. D. W. Snively, of Evansville, Ind., believe there is no better way to solidify the family group and minimize likes and dislikes than to insist from the start that all share the family fare. This does not mean that the child is forced to eat everything; he is given the privilege of omitting the foods he dislikes.

The easiest way to suppress the small fry's appetite for lunch or dinner is to allow him to eat between meals. Good nutrition depends upon the type of food consumed at the table and not the glass of milk, cookies, and crackers that he gets at 11 a. m. or 4 p. m.

The older child requires more food than the three meal routine supplies. The deficit is obtained by in-between snacks such as a peanut butter sandwich, fruit, milk, and other quality foods. These supplements should not be eaten immediately before meals.

Snacks for the older youngsters and none for the younger tots is a situation that is likely to complicate life for the mother of a large family but it is necessary in order to maintain good nutrition at each age level. Parents should be reasonable, avoid mealtime pressures and maintain a balance in providing love and attention for their progeny.

Catching Up With The Arthropods

Ants, horseshoe crabs, bees and caterpillars are arthropods. In their compound eyes there is a reaction that makes it possible for them to guide themselves with polar light when the sun is not visible.

The arthropod needs only a small patch of blue sky for his "light compass." It is a delicate device that human navigators would like to have, particularly for use in polar zones. There the magnetic compass is defective, and as winter comes on there is a long gap between the setting of the sun and the appearance of the first star. The arthropod sensitivity to polar light, if it could be reproduced in a man-made instrument, would be a boon to navigators of ships and aircraft.

The animal kingdom has already furnished man with much of what he knows about the functioning of his own body. Observation of non-human creatures has provided important clues in the study of disease and psychology. And didn't the birds teach man to fly?

Having wrested from nature so many of her deepest secrets, there can be little doubt that science will find a way to reproduce the arthropod "light compass." Beside atomic energy and radar the problem seems almost elemental.

And yet its solution, like the other great achievements of science, must rest on patient observation and interminable experiment. The willingness to undertake such labor and the ability to draw the right conclusions from the results are what make man superior to the rest of the life which teems about him.

At a time when in matters political and economic man doesn't seem too bright, this is a comforting thought.

These Days

The Captive Nations

When Nixon and Khrushchev held their now famous debate in the American-style kitchen at the American Fair in Moscow, the cause for Khrushchev's unruly anger was that Congress had passed a joint resolution on July 17, providing for a "Captive Nations Week." The President approved the resolution the same day. Several times, during Nixon's visits with Khrushchev, the latter referred to the "captives" — his captives. After his anger, it struck him as funny. It is not so funny for millions of human beings.

The nations referred to in the resolution are as follows: Poland, Hungary, Lithuania, Ukraine, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Estonia, White Ruthenia, Rumania, East Germany, Bulgaria, Mainland China, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, North Korea, Albania, Idel-Ural, Tibet, Cossackia, Turkestan, North Viet-Nam, and others.

This is a long list of areas conquered by Soviet Russia, mainly during World War II and after. Some of them have been incorporated within the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics; others are so-called people's republics. It is a record of the imperialistic success of the Kremlin. The resolution further states:

". . . these submerged nations look to the United States, as the citadel of human freedom, for leadership in bringing about their liberation and independence and in restoring to them the enjoyment of their Christian, Jewish, Moslem, Buddhist, and other religious freedoms, and of their individual liberties . . ."

This resolution seems to have bothered Khrushchev more than any criticism that has been made of his brutality or rudeness because it is a wholly true statement of fact. Following the theories of Treitschke, Stalin set out to establish a number of satellite countries that would take the first brunt of war; furthermore, in these satellites first Kaganovich and then Khrushchev found a wealth of raw materials and manufacturing establishments which could be used in the development of a modern industrial complex, capable of fighting a war.

To Soviet Russia, the captive nations represent a Chinese Wall against the West. However, that wall is realistically rubble now that war must be conducted by air-borne bombs, rockets and missiles. Nevertheless, it has been characteristic of Russian history that what the Russians take, they never give up willingly. Russia has been like a rolling snow-ball, gathering size as it rolled on and on.

Men's memories are short. We, in America, forget, for instance, that the United States brought into existence the most progressive Slavic state, Czechoslovakia. It was the great friendship of three men, Woodrow Wilson, Professor Thomas G. Masaryk and Charles R. Crane that carved out this nation, liberated it from the Austro-Hungarian Empire and obtained its independence at the Paris Conference after World War I. Czechoslovakia became a democratic republic with Professor Thomas G. Masaryk as President and Dr. Eduard Benes as Prime Minister. Hitler seized this country on the ground that the Sudeten Germans (Bohemia) were ethnically Germans and therefore belonged to him. The Kremlin succeeded to Hitler's ownership. Czechoslovakia is now practically an integral part of Russia with no life of its own.

Americans were excited when Hitler marched into this peace-loving country of hard-working, energetic people. We are not excited today when Czechoslovakia is, for all practical purposes, a province of Soviet Russia. We are not excited about any outrage committed by Soviet Russia. We made a big noise about Genocide when it affected Hitler; we are silent about Genocide now that it affects Soviet Russia.

In fact, it has become fashionable to go to Russia. Those who do not go there are not "in." I cannot imagine what they are "in" or not "in" but they all went to Russia this Summer like bees swarming together. This Winter, we shall be hearing all about Russia from 10 day experts who saw the Red Square in Moscow, the Nevsky in Leningrad and whatever it is they can see in Kiev—possibly the ancient cathedral. They will all tell of the wonders of the one big department store in Moscow—something like Gimbels' basement. They will say that all Russians smile when they see Americans. It looks more like a belly-laugh watching the fools part with their money.

The Inventor

Nixon Found Khrushchev Drank Little Vodka During Recent Visit

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Vice President Nixon invited a few key Senators to a private luncheon the other day and confided his personal impressions of Nikita Khrushchev.

After swearing the Senators to secrecy, Nixon told how he vowed not to get a single vodka ahead of the Soviet premier, in order to keep his mind clear for their talks.

"During our Sunday afternoon together," Nixon reported, "I made up my mind I would drink only what he did and no more. We didn't drink anything until the business was over.

"It would be a mistake," the Vice President concluded, "to think that Khrushchev is drinking too much vodka."

Nixon said the Russian leader was a different man in private than in public.

"Like a lot of us politicians, when he gets in front of a big crowd he can't help but ham it up," observed Nixon. "But in private, he is very controlled and well informed erroneously informed but informed. He obviously has received a lot of bad information about us. He thinks our people don't like the system and the leaders they live under and are waiting to revolt. Apparently he believes that."

The Vice President was startled to find that Khrushchev had editorials on his desk that had been printed in influential American newspapers the previous day.

"He read them even before I got to see them," said Nixon. He noted that the Kremlin boss was "sensitive" to American editorial opinion.

Byrd Worries About Red Taxes

During their private talks, Khrushchev was alternately harsh and conciliatory, which Nixon took to be deliberate, hot-and-cold tactics. Khrushchev was boastful about Russia's "superior" missiles, which he tossed verbally around the world, telling how few it would take to knock out London, Paris, and New York.

The most disturbing problem connected with Khrushchev's forthcoming visit was raised by Senator Harry Byrd, Virginia Democrat, who asked about the danger of some crackpot or malcontent taking a shot at the No. 1 Communist.

"My God!" declared Nixon, throwing up his hands, "That's what worries us the most!"

Earlier, the fiscal-minded Byrd unintentionally caused his colleagues to roar with laughter by asking the question that always seems to concern him most.

"What is the highest tax bracket they have on those rich people?" He asked Nixon about the Soviet upper crust.

After the laughter subsided, Nixon said he didn't know. But another Khrushchev interviewer, Minnesota's Senator Hubert Humphrey, volunteered that it was 13 per cent.

Senator Mike Mansfield, Montana Democrat, asked why Cardinal Wyznski had refused to see Nixon in Warsaw.

The Vice President explained that Poland has "religious toleration" if not religious freedom, and that the Communist government even subsidizes parochial schools.

"It might have been harmful to this delicate relationship for me to be in direct contact with the Cardinal," he said. He didn't mention that he had sought an audience with Cardinal Wyznski against the State Department's advice and that the Cardinal was the one who politely declined.

Not Much Democracy

Nixon said he was most impressed with the impact he made on factory workers when he stopped by to shake hands. He recalled the "tremendous look of amazement" on their faces when his identity was explained.

He said the Communist leaders ignore the common people, thinking in terms of efficiency instead of human values. The managerial class ride in Cadillacs with the shades pulled down and never bother with the common working people.

"They think in terms of production figures and efficiency," observed Nixon. "They don't think in human terms."

Describing the reaction of the factory workers over meeting the American Vice President, he said: "Here was a big guy in the American government who had come down to their level and shaken hands with the people. At first their faces would look startled, then a pleased expression would break out."

Nixon said Khrushchev "was out to clobber me" the first couple days, then settled down and became more friendly.

After the confidential luncheon, even Nixon's most outspoken Democratic critics agreed he had increased in stature, that he had done a competent job.

Labor Bill's House Passage Was Epochal Event

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Something of epochal importance happened when the House of Representatives last Friday passed a law aimed at stopping abuses of power by labor unions. It was not merely on the merits of the issue that the vote is a notable record, but it was a demonstration of the power of public opinion to cut through party lines.

The nation had given to the Democratic Party in the 1958 election overwhelming control of the House of Representatives. Yet the President, a Republican, was able to persuade the people that their representatives in the House should support the measure he favored. Not so long ago some writers were cavalierly dismissing Mr. Eisenhower as a "weak" executive because, not being eligible under the constitution to be a candidate for reelection, he couldn't influence Congress by promises of appointments and other favors. But this was a superficial view. It was based on a failure to read carefully the pages of American history.

For presidents like Theodore Roosevelt led even in the second term because they were able to sway public opinion. Mr. Eisenhower, precisely because he cannot run for office again, is looked upon as disinterested. For nearly two years now he has insisted that there must be reform legislation to curb abuses in the labor-management field. The Democratic Party-controlled Congress, influenced to no small extent by Northern Democrats who are closely affiliated with labor unions, was hesitant to enact any laws dealing effectively with the abuses exposed by the Senate's investigating committee. A plainly dilatory attitude was manifested by the Democratic leadership in the Senate, which acted in 1958 only when it was apparent that it was too late to get the measure through the House at that session.

But the President, counselled by Secretary of Labor Mitchell, insisted on keeping the issue before the people. A bill was drawn up and presented at the start of the current session of Congress. It was prepared by the Secretary of Labor. Though Mr. Mitchell has been looked upon as somewhat inclined to be a partisan of the labor-union cause — especially because of his refusal to endorse wholeheartedly the right-to-work doctrine — he turned out to be a true friend of both labor and management by persistently urging that a measure be passed to deal with the flagrant abuses exposed by the McClellan committee.

The labor-union leaders who opposed the administration measures never made a bigger mistake. They failed to see that statesmanship really demanded their support of the reform measure. Instead, they cried out that the bill would hurt "legitimate unionism." This was like saying that legitimately operated unions could not function if certain abuses were corrected, and that the country had to pay the price of enduring indefinitely the hardships imposed by the criminal and racketeering element just because of the theoretical objections of other labor leaders.

Too many rank-and-file union members have held the same view. Unions, to them, are sacrosanct — a sort of super-government. Union officers wield the power to tax every employee in a plant and make him pay dues and assessments without his consent. Union officers determine that a worker must be fired if he refuses to join a union. Union officers decide whether dues money shall be used to help elect a party or a candidate that the worker himself may oppose. Many unions do not permit a secret ballot on vital issues.

Such absolutism has not yet run its course, but the bill passed last Friday by the House of Representatives, far from swinging the balance away from unions toward the employer, actually swings it away from the racketeering union leader or the craven employer toward the worker by preserving his civil rights.

The country owes a debt of gratitude to many Democrats from the South. It was they who joined with Northern Republicans in a coalition that has managed on other occasions, too, in the last several years to save America from the depredations of a radical and spendthrift bloc of so-called "liberals" who profess to be in favor of human rights but who actually vote to give monopoly powers to special groups which help them to win election with big campaign funds.

Efforts will be made by this same group to water down the labor-reform legislation just passed by the House. But the public will be alerted to the battle and, if the Senate fails to act, the Republicans will go to the country in 1960 with the best issue they have had in years. For the nation once saw laws passed to punish wicked corporations when they usurped power, and it will insist on the same treatment now for those who betray the workers by conducting autocratic unions and setting up one-man dictatorships which brazenly use methods that are plainly violative of individual rights.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

President Eisenhower is chalking up an enviable record of achievements in the legislative field despite the predominantly Democratic make-up of Congress.

He has been victorious in most of his battles over appropriations, both for domestic government operations and in the foreign and military fields. Where he has had to employ his veto powers, Congress has sustained his view.

However, the foreign aid program is a horse of a different color. Mr. Eisenhower is very apt to lose a large part of his battle for an adequate program — in fact has all but lost it already.

Congress is in the act of cutting the size of his recommended foreign aid program for the 1960 fiscal year by more than $700 million, or 20 per cent. This is a cut deeper than the President feels he can tolerate, yet in this area his veto is powerless.

Should Congress carry through their economy intentions as now appears most likely, foreign aid will be the greatest defeat in the legislative field that President Eisenhower will suffer during the present session.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jerry Ribnick

Bowling, America's fastest growing sport, is hard enough if you can see. How would it be if you were blind? You take the 12-foot walk on the approach, lift the 16-pound ball and throw it 60 feet toward the 10 pins. You don't know where the ball is going and what's more you don't even know your target.

Impossible? It isn't. So 48 blind bowlers have discovered in Houston, Texas, where a Mixed Blind League is now in its second year. The league originated over a cup of coffee when I interviewed Ann Baxter, a blind woman with courage. She is the wife of an executive of Hughes Oil Tool Co. Ann became blind following an accident while riding in a horse show at Madison Square Garden.

For years she was despondent (natural characteristic of the blind) and ready to give up. She felt her days in sports, her greatest joy, were over. Then she remembered how well she once did at bowling. "Why can't I still bowl?" she asked. She enlisted the aid of Mrs. Frances Shroyer of the Recreation Palace, who started her back along the bowling trail.

"It was disgusting at the start," Ann said. "I was ready to give up many times, but Frances insisted I continue."

When she started, Ann bowled around 30 or 40. A year later she was giving exhibitions throughout Texas. She currently holds a 138 average in two leagues where she is the only blind bowler competing.

It was Ann who suggested the idea of a blind bowling league. From the start the league was an overwhelming success. It ran 12 weeks. Fred Mcgee, operator of the Recreation Lanes, paid for the bowling. At the end of the season a party was held and the Houston Chronicle gave every blind member a trophy.

The real miracle was yet to come. Walter (Pop) Trimble of Baytown (a small city near Houston), had been blind 20 years of his life. One night he thought he saw an outline of the pins. It scared the nimble, grey-haired 59-year-old carpenter.

He visited his doctor next day and was amazed to hear that bowling, through a miracle, had relieved pressure on his eyes. "An operation may help you regain your sight," the doctor said.

Walter's sightless eyes misted. It couldn't be. After all the years, and after scores of doctors had told him he would never see again, there still was a chance. I was in Walter's room when they took off the bandages.

I knew after watching the smile when he saw sunlight for the first time that God never forgets the unfortunate.

"Of course, the doctors say I'll never see perfectly again, but I thank God for this much," said Walter. "I have grandchildren I've never seen."

That was a year ago. Today Trimble works his trade as a carpenter in the Baytown area. The story doesn't end yet. This summer the Mixed Blind League was formed again, at the insistence of the Houston Lighthouse for the Blind. From the first group of 24 blind bowlers the list has grown until 48 blind bowlers are now hefting the ball, throwing it, waiting to listen to the long thunder of the ball on the alley, and the foamy crash of a strike.

They have a swell time every Thursday at the O. S. T. Lanes. Even the guide dogs seem to enjoy the bowling. And the idea is spreading. Blind leagues have now been formed in Austin, Dallas, Tulsa, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City.

Recently the Harris County Committee for Cripple' Children asked about starting a bowling league, patterned after the blind league. If the blind can bowl so well, why can't children in wheelchairs? At least they can see. They'll get their chance...

Food Requirements Of Children Vary Greatly

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many toddlers do not eat or need three large meals a day and often do not participate in more than two. The wise parent respects the smaller appetites of the child and will not force him to eat more than he wants.

There is a vast difference in the food requirements of boys and girls at different age levels. The essential proteins provided by meat, eggs, fish, and cheese are the same, regardless of age. As a result, these foods should not be omitted just because the youngster is drinking an ample amount of milk.

The successful mother avoids also the trap of preparing different foods for each child. Dr. H. D. Lynch and Dr. D. W. Snively, of Evansville, Ind., believe there is no better way to solidify the family group and minimize likes and dislikes than to insist from the start that all share the family fare. This does not mean that the child is forced to eat everything; he is given the privilege of omitting the foods he dislikes.

The easiest way to suppress the small fry's appetite for lunch or dinner is to allow him to eat between meals. Good nutrition depends upon the type of food consumed at the table and not the glass of milk, cookies, and crackers that he gets at 11 a. m. or 4 p. m.

The older child requires more food than the three meal routine supplies. The deficit is obtained by in-between snacks such as a peanut butter sandwich, fruit, milk, and other quality foods. These supplements should not be eaten immediately before meals.

Snacks for the older youngsters and none for the younger tots is a situation that is likely to complicate life for the mother of a large family but it is necessary in order to maintain good nutrition at each age level. Parents should be reasonable, avoid mealtime pressures and maintain a balance in providing love and attention for their progeny.

Bell Sparks Attack With Three Blows

Hits 19th Home Run As "Big Newk" Bags 11th Win Of Season

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Gus Bell ran his hitting streak to 14 games with a single, double, and homer and drove in three runs Tuesday night as the Cincinnati Reds blanked the San Francisco Giants 7-0, behind the eight-hit pitching of Don Newcombe.

Bell's first-inning double sent home Vada Pinson with the Reds' first run of the game. He later scored on Frankie Robinson's single as the Reds took a 2-0 lead.

Four more Red runs crossed the plate in the third inning, two of them on Bell's 19th homer of the season, as the Reds boosted their lead to 6-0 while sending Eddie Fisher to the showers.

Whitey Lockman, filling in at second base for the injured Johnny Temple, rapped out four hits in five trips to share hitting honors with Bell.

Newcombe, going the route for the 14th time this season, was in serious trouble only in the first inning. Then, with two runners aboard, he retired Orlando Cepeda on a foul fly and fanned Kirkland.

Newcombe, who always pitches his best against the Giants, now has a 5-1 season mark and a 22-13 career record against the league leaders. His overall season mark is 11-6.

Wheeling Reverts To Night Racing

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Wheeling Downs race track announced plans to revert to night racing, except on Labor Day, for the remainder of its summer meeting which continues through Oct. 10.

Originally, the track planned to present day racing on Saturdays throughout the meet. A track spokesman said the change in plans had been brought about by small Saturday crowds and preferences for night racing.

Meanwhile, racing director Edward A. Miller denied reports that the track had been sold. "The track has not been sold and nobody has approached the track owners for the purpose of buying Wheeling Downs," he said.

Fox's 2-Run Double Wins Game In 8th

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nellie Fox lined a two-run double in the eighth inning Tuesday night to widen the Chicago White Sox's American League lead to 4½ games with a 6-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Fox, the White Sox's foremost candidate for the league's Most Valuable Player award, drove in Gerry Staley with the tie-breaking run and Luis Aparicio followed with the insurance run.

Fox's hit was his first in four trips to the plate and the ninth for the White Sox, who scored their earlier runs on two sacrifice flies, a bases-loaded walk and a single after an error.

The victory went to Staley, second Chicago pitcher after veteran Early Wynn was removed in the fifth inning.

Dempsey To Head Rosensohn Group

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Dempsey, boxing's Manassa mauler of 40 years ago, Tuesday was named managing director of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., the organization which promoted the Ingemar Johansson - Floyd Patterson bout in Yankee Stadium on June 26.

He succeeds Bill Rosensohn, who sprang into prominence in the past year by directing both the Johansson bout and the Patterson title defense in Los Angeles against Roy Harris.

Following the June 26 fight, Rosensohn was ousted from his own organization by Vincent Velella, New York lawyer and owner of two-thirds of the concern. Velella also put Irving Kahn, president of TeleprompTer, Inc., on the board of directors.

Rosensohn, who has a personal contract with the new heavyweight champion, then left for a vacation in Europe. He is expected to return Thursday.

Three investigations into the promotional aspects of the bout are under way.

Washington Hands Tribe 11-4 Setback

Sievers, Green Hit Home Runs, Kemmerer Victor

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Roy Sievers and Lennie Green clouted homers in a six-run, sixth-inning rally that sparked the Washington Senators to an 11-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night.

The Senators exploded for their last four runs in the eighth on five singles and two doubles to hand the Indians their fourth straight defeat.

The first outburst against rookie Jim Perry overcame a 3-1 Cleveland lead on Jim Baxes' homer in the fourth. Baxes' blow with two on was off Russ Kemmerer, who won his seventh game. He has lost 12.

Sievers' homer, No. 17 of the campaign, came with one on after the Senators had scored once in the sixth on singles by Harmon Killebrew and Jim Lemon and a sacrifice fly by Hal Naragon.

Green's four-bagger, only his second this year, followed a walk to Billy Consolo and a single by Ken Aspromonte. Green also singled twice in Washington's 17-hit offense.

Perry was kayoed in the eighth by Sievers' double and Consolo's single. But Al Cicotte, who followed, gave up hits to five of the seven Washington batters he faced. Mike Garcia finally retired the side by forcing Sievers to pop up with the bases loaded.

Yankees Whip Don Mossi, 5-3

Berra And Lopez Clout Home Runs

DETROIT (UPI) — The New York Yankees battered left hander Don Mossi with a nine hit attack, including home runs by Yogi Berra and Hector Lopez to score all their runs in the first three innings Tuesday night and hung on to take a 5-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Mossi, who had beaten the Yankees five times this year, was removed for a pinch hitter while New York's Art Ditmar went eight innings and got credit for his eighth triumph against eight losses.

The Yankees jumped on Mossi in the second when Hector Lopez led off with a single. A triple by Tony Kubek and a double by Ditmar produced the first two runs.

After Mickey Mantle had singled to lead off the third, Yogi Berra blasted his 17th home run of the year. Lopez rounded out the scoring for the Yanks when he followed with his 16th round-tripper of the season.

Ditmar had a shutout going until the eighth when singles by Frank Bolling and Charley Maxwell produced two runs and saw Whitey Ford relieve.

Ford retired the next two men in the eighth but allowed Detroit's final run. Lou Berberet hit his 10th homer in the last inning for the final score of the game.

Phils Defeat St. Louis, 2-1

Ashburn's Single Wins Game In 8th

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Richie Ashburn, who hadn't batted in a run since July 30, singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning Tuesday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The winner was Jim Owens (9-10) and the loser was 20-year-old bonus pitcher Bob Miller who beat the Phils in his first major league appearance Aug. 8. It was the right hander's second loss since then.

Both pitchers went the route, with Owens fanning seven as he allowed 10 hits without a base on balls. Miller pitched a six hitter in his third major league appearance and fanned four as he walked one.

Owens doubled home the Phils' first run in the second inning, and the Cards tied it in the sixth when Joe Cunningham singled, went to third on Gene Oliver's double, and scored on Curt Flood's infield out.

Owens started a game - ending double play after Flood singled to open the ninth. He got out of trouble on other occasions with his strikeout ball. He fanned Ken Boyer to retire the side with runners on second and third in the fifth, got Flood on an infield out and struck out Miller with men on second and third in the sixth and whiffed George Crowe and Oliver with the tieing run on in the eighth.

Rickey Heads New League

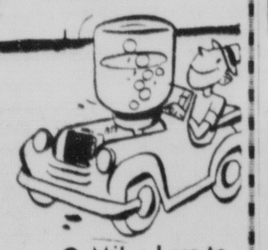

NEW YORK (AP) — The Continental League's plea for major league status received the full support Tuesday of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and his committee.

The announcement followed a day-long session preceded by the naming of Branch Rickey, 77-year-old father of baseball's farm system, as the Continental League's first president.

Representatives of the embryo major league said they would move full steam ahead to organize the circuit with eight teams. The founding cities are New York, Toronto, Houston, Denver and Minneaplis-St. Paul. Among the other cities under consideration are Montreal, Buffalo, Seattle, San Diego, Miami, Atlanta, San Juan and Dallas-Fort Worth.

The support of Frick and his committee is subject to the 10 prerequisites the American and National leagues put the new loop in Columbus, Ohio last May.

Bell Sparks Attack With Three Blows

Hits 19th Home Run As "Big Newk" Bags 11th Win Of Season

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Gus Bell ran his hitting streak to 14 games with a single, double, and homer and drove in three runs Tuesday night as the Cincinnati Reds blanked the San Francisco Giants 7-0, behind the eight-hit pitching of Don Newcombe.

Bell's first-inning double sent home Vada Pinson with the Reds' first run of the game. He later scored on Frankie Robinson's single as the Reds took a 2-0 lead.

Four more Red runs crossed the plate in the third inning, two of them on Bell's 19th homer of the season, as the Reds boosted their lead to 6-0 while sending Eddie Fisher to the showers.

Whitey Lockman, filling in at second base for the injured Johnny Temple, rapped out four hits in five trips to share hitting honors with Bell.

Newcombe, going the route for the 14th time this season, was in serious trouble only in the first inning. Then, with two runners aboard, he retired Orlando Cepeda on a foul fly and fanned Kirkland.

Newcombe, who always pitches his best against the Giants, now has a 5-1 season mark and a 22-13 career record against the league leaders. His overall season mark is 11-6.

Wheeling Reverts To Night Racing

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Wheeling Downs race track announced plans to revert to night racing, except on Labor Day, for the remainder of its summer meeting which continues through Oct. 10.

Originally, the track planned to present day racing on Saturdays throughout the meet. A track spokesman said the change in plans had been brought about by small Saturday crowds and preferences for night racing.

Meanwhile, racing director Edward A. Miller denied reports that the track had been sold. "The track has not been sold and nobody has approached the track owners for the purpose of buying Wheeling Downs," he said.

Fox's 2-Run Double Wins Game In 8th

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nellie Fox lined a two-run double in the eighth inning Tuesday night to widen the Chicago White Sox's American League lead to 4½ games with a 6-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Fox, the White Sox's foremost candidate for the league's Most Valuable Player award, drove in Gerry Staley with the tie-breaking run and Luis Aparicio followed with the insurance run.

Fox's hit was his first in four trips to the plate and the ninth for the White Sox, who scored their earlier runs on two sacrifice flies, a bases-loaded walk and a single after an error.

The victory went to Staley, second Chicago pitcher after veteran Early Wynn was removed in the fifth inning.

Dempsey To Head Rosensohn Group

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Dempsey, boxing's Manassa mauler of 40 years ago, Tuesday was named managing director of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., the organization which promoted the Ingemar Johansson - Floyd Patterson bout in Yankee Stadium on June 26.

He succeeds Bill Rosensohn, who sprang into prominence in the past year by directing both the Johansson bout and the Patterson title defense in Los Angeles against Roy Harris.

Following the June 26 fight, Rosensohn was ousted from his own organization by Vincent Velella. New York lawyer and owner of two-thirds of the concern, Velella also put Irving Kahn, president of TeleprompTer, Inc., on the board of directors.

Rosensohn, who has a personal contract with the new heavyweight champion, then left for a vacation in Europe. He is expected to return Thursday.

Three investigations into the promotional aspects of the bout are under way.

Sievers, Green Hit Home Runs, Kemmerer Victor

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Roy Sievers and Lennie Green clouted homers in a six-run, sixth-inning rally that sparked the Washington Senators to an 11-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night.

The Senators exploded for their last four runs in the eighth on five singles and two doubles to hand the Indians their fourth straight defeat.

The first outburst against rookie Jim Perry overcame a 3-1 Cleveland lead on Jim Baxes' homer in the fourth. Baxes' blow with two on was off Russ Kemmerer, who won his seventh game. He has lost 12.

Sievers' homer, No. 17 of the campaign, came with one on after the Senators had scored once in the sixth on singles by Harmon Killebrew and Jim Lemon and a sacrifice fly by Hal Naragon.

Green's four-bagger, only his second this year, followed a walk to Billy Consolo and a single by Ken Aspromonte. Green also singled twice in Washington's 17-hit offense.

Perry was kayoed in the eighth by Sievers' double and Consolo's single. But Al Cicotte, who followed, gave up hits to five of the seven Washington batters he faced. Mike Garcia finally retired the side by forcing Sievers to pop up with the bases loaded.

Yankees Whip Don Mossi, 5-3

Berra And Lopez Clout Home Runs

DETROIT (UPI) — The New York Yankees battered left hander Don Mossi with a nine hit attack, including home runs by Yogi Berra and Hector Lopez to score all their runs in the first three innings Tuesday night and hung on to take a 5-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Mossi, who had beaten the Yankees five times this year, was removed for a pinch hitter while New York's Art Ditmar went eight innings and got credit for his eighth triumph against eight losses.

The Yankees jumped on Mossi in the second when Hector Lopez led off with a single. A triple by Tony Kubek and a double by Ditmar produced the first two runs.

After Mickey Mantle had singled to lead off the third, Yogi Berra blasted his 17th home run of the year. Lopez rounded out the scoring for the Yanks when he followed with his 16th round-tripper of the season.

Ditmar had a shutout going until the eighth when singles by Frank Bolling and Charley Maxwell produced two runs and saw Whitey Ford relieve.

Ford retired the next two men in the eighth but allowed Detroit's final run. Lou Berberet hit his 10th homer in the last inning for the final score of the game.

Phils Defeat St. Louis, 2-1

Ashburn's Single Wins Game In 8th

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Richie Ashburn, who hadn't batted in a run since July 30, singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning Tuesday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The winner was Jim Owens (9-10) and the loser was 20-year-old bonus pitcher Bob Miller who beat the Phils in his first major league appearance Aug. 8. It was the right hander's second loss since then.

Both pitchers went the route, with Owens fanning seven as he allowed 10 hits without a base on balls. Miller pitched a six hitter in his third major league appearance and fanned four as he walked one.

Owens doubled home the Phils' first run in the second inning, and the Cards tied it in the sixth when Joe Cunningham singled, went to third on Gene Oliver's double, and scored on Curt Flood's infield out.

Owens started a game - ending double play after Flood singled to open the ninth. He got out of trouble on other occasions with his strikeout ball. He fanned Ken Boyer to retire the side with runners on second and third in the fifth, got Flood on an infield out and struck out Miller with men on second and third in the sixth and whiffed George Crowe and Oliver with the tieing run on in the eighth.

Rickey Heads New League

NEW YORK (AP) — The Continental League's plea for major league status received the full support Tuesday of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and his committee.

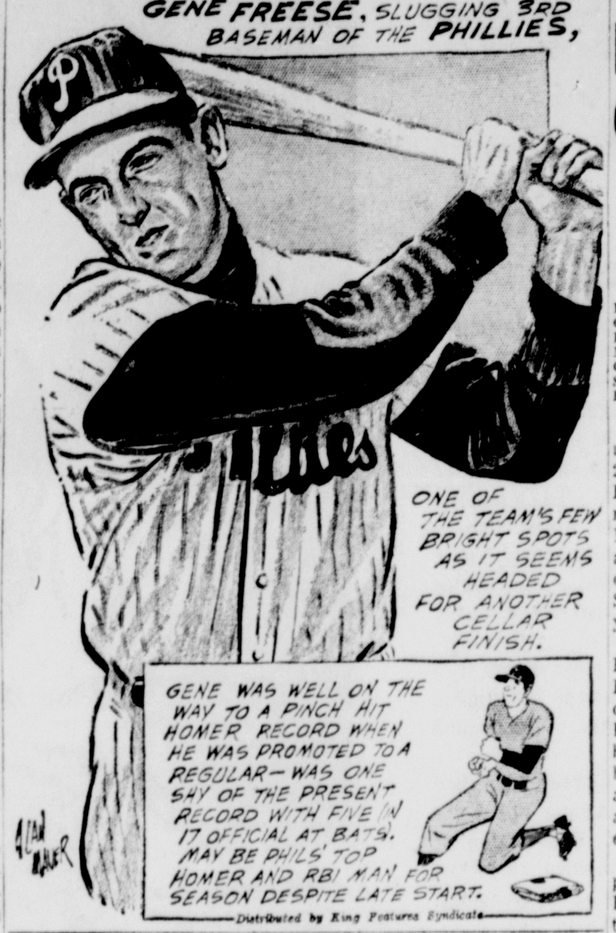

The announcement followed a day-long session preceded by the naming of Branch Rickey, 77-year-old father of baseball's farm system, as the Continental League's first president.

Representatives of the embryo major league said they would move full steam ahead to organize the circuit with eight teams. The founding cities are New York, Toronto, Houston, Denver and Minneaplis-St. Paul. Among the other cities under consideration are Montreal, Buffalo, Seattle, San Diego, Miami, Atlanta, San Juan and Dallas-Fort Worth.

The support of Frick and his committee is subject to the 10 prerequisites the American and National leagues put the new loop in Columbus, Ohio last May.

Bedford Road Optimists Win Hot Stove League Pennant

Beat Kiwanis By 2-0 Score In Final Tilt

Killen's Hit Wins, B'nai B'rith Cops, 1-0; Lions Upset

Manager Ced Miller's Bedford Road Optimist Club captured the pennant in the Hot Stove Baseball League for the 1959 campaign by beating the Kiwanis Club in an extra inning battle yesterday by the score of 2-0 at Mason Road Field.

The victory gave Bedford Road a 16-5 record for the season and their first flag in the circuit. In the past eight years the pennant winners were:

Killen's Hit Decides

Yesterday's crucial battle resulted in a pitching duel in which Harold Hardinger was returned the victor over Jim Powelson, and was decided in the eighth inning when Dick Killen delivered the blow that scored two runs.

Homer Hardinger singled to open the rally, Harold Hardinger was safe on an error at first base, "Jug" Adams drew a pass and Killen came through with a timely single.

Harold Hardinger turned back the Kiwanians with four hits, fanned ten and registered his sixth win against a single loss. His brother, Homer, has a 7-3 record with the pennant winning club.

Powelson gave up seven hits, whiffed a dozen and suffered his fourth setback against nine victories.

Killen and Harold Hardinger shared four of the winning team's seven blows. The hits were by Mickey Lantz, Homer Harding and Bill Dean. Wayne Jewell had two hits and Powelson and Mickey Robinson had one each for the Kiwanians.

B'nai B'rith Wins, 1-0

In another close battle, B'nai B'rith emerged the winner over the Rotary Club by the score of 1-0, on a one-hitter by Kenny Deatelhauser, and moved into fourth place in the league race with an 11-9 mark. Kiwanis occupies third place with 12-9 and the Rotary Club is fifth with 10-9. Rotary Club has two more games on its schedule while B'nai B'rith has one.

B'nai B'rith won the game in the 6th inning when Clayton Smith walked, pilfered second and scored on Larry Peters' single. Smith also starred afield with a sensational running catch in right of Marty O'Toole's drive in the second inning.

The only hit yielded by Deatelhauser was made by Ronnie Manges in the second inning. The B'nai B'rith hurler fanned eleven and failed to issue a pass. Manges gave up five hits, fanned 14 and passed one. Del Schoonover tripled and DelaGrange, Peters, Cross and Smith garnered singles for B'nai B'rith.

Kaplon Blanks Lions

The 7th place Cumberland Optimist Club upset the second place Lions Club last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 4-0 behind a three-hit pitching performance of Al Kaplon.

Mueller Fight Fan — "Socko" Visits "Vic"

Enoch Liked Horses — Harper Ranked 8th

By C. V. BURNS

RAYMOND "Pat" Farrell recalls that Louis Mueller, former president of the local plant of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, who died last Thursday in Akron, Ohio, was one of Cumberland's most enthusiastic boxing fans when he resided on Washington street.

That was in the days "Vic" Ricker was promoting shows at the armory, Harry Nelson and John R. "Tim" Dolan, also of Kelly, judged the fights, and Charley Short of Baltimore was the referee.

"Mr. Mueller was a red hot fight fan and he used to buy several rows of ringside seats for his friends whenever Ricker put on a show," Farrell mused.

Mr. Mueller succeeded T. C. "Tim" Marshall as Kelly president in 1926, five years after the plant opened here.

Farrell has been at Kelly since the plant operations began. In fact, he helped build it when he was with the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Company.

"Pat" was the ticket checker at most of the pro ring shows in those days.

And did you know that "Pat" was once the steward at the Fort Cumberland Hotel where the dapper Mr. Ricker now operates his tonsorial parlor?

Getting back to Mr. Mueller, Farrell says "there was none finer."

BALLOTS sent out recently for the National Jockeys Hall of Fame at Pimlico contain the names of seven inactive riders with instructions given to vote for two.

He was the top money winning rider of 1912 and was the nation's leading race rider in 1920. For 10 years he was among the top saddle stars.

Of interest to Cumberland racing fans is the fact that at the age of 40 Butwell rode at Fairgo during the five-day meeting in 1927. He had one winner, one second and one third.

In those days at the local half mile track, vaudeville acts were put on in front of the grandstand between the races and the fair was held the same week.

QUOTING Paul Menton, sports editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun:

"Only those who had the good fortune to be closely associated with John Vernall realize the great loss his death at 29 means to high school athletics in Baltimore county. He was a truly dedicated teacher and coach.

A native of Cumberland and former Allegany High School and Fairmont State College athlete, Vernall died last Thursday morning in a Baltimore hospital.

THE DEATH of Enoch P. Price of Frostburg the other day marked the passing of the owner and trainer of the largest stable of horses ever handled by an Allegany countian.

Other horses in the Price string included Bonziah Seniah, an "old-timer," Stanley, Nimble K Fox, Melissa W., LaVega, Neddie's Doll, Tiz Tiz It, Erejee, Bus N Bus and Rectortown.

Bonziah Seniah when spelled backwards was supposed to be the name of a famous French actress.

Melissa W., named after Mrs. Price, was not a filly or a mare but was a gelding.

Enoch used to chuckle whenever he told the story about the misnaming of this horse.

REMEMBER Clarence "Socko" Trenaman, the heavyweight belter from the Tri-Towns, who was a knockout artist in the pro boxing shows here in 1928 and 1929?

"Socko" visited "Vic" Ricker, the former local boxing promoter the other day while en route from a vacation in Canada to his home in Middletown, Ohio.

Trenaman is now an evangelist. A year ago he was seriously ill. Then he scaled over 300 pounds. Now he is down to 200 and looks the picture of health, according to maestro Ricker.

"Socko" used to pack 'em in at the State Armory. He belted out seven in a row and all in the first or second rounds before he lost his first bout here.

CLARENCE HARPER, of 724 Elm Street, ranked in eighth place nationally among the amateur motorcycle hill climbers in the United States this year, according to statistics compiled by the Amateur Motorcycle Association.

Harper is credited with 24 points.

The 18 top riders came from seven states—Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, New York Maryland and Canada.

THE FIRST motorcycle hill climbing program in this section since June 16, 1957, is set for Labor Day, Sept. 7, off Route 51 in Maryland, four miles from Paw Paw, W. Va.

Contestants in the recent national championship tests at Muskegon, Mich., will compete in the two pro and two amateur events here. The field will include several Canadian slant riders.

In the 1957 hill climbs on the Kline farm near the airport, Joseph W. Hemmis and Howard Mitzell won the pro events and Charley Jacob and Gordon Mitzel were the amateur victors.

This emporium will have 112 lanes and is big enough to hold two football gridirons, house a 15-car freight train, easily contain the longest home run ever hit and make a great number of bowlers happy at one time.

The building also contains three cocktail lounges, a large restaurant and snack bar and persons desiring to travel the 635 feet from end to end may use a trolley car.

The establishment covers more than 2½ acres of land and can accommodate 560 bowlers at one time. Cost is estimated at three million dollars.

RUSH FOR GOLD, the horse that returned $104 for $2 and figured in the $2,603.40 daily double payoff yesterday at Charles Town, has raced at Fairgo in recent years.

And did you notice that Miss Gold Rush won yesterday at Atlantic City and paid $44.60!

Olmedo, Buchholz, Fraser, Emerson Capture Matches

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—The top U.S. and Australian doubles teams advanced without serious difficulty Tuesday in second round play of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn's national doubles tourney.

The top-seeded American team of Alex Olmedo and Earl Buchholz Jr., stumbled only once in whipping 17-year-old Ramsey Earnhart, Ventura, Calif., and Paul Palmer, Phoenix, Ariz., 6-2, 6-2, 9-11, 6-2.

Australia's top duo, and the Wimbledon champions, Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson, handled a couple of young Californians easily. They beat Al Driscole, Hollywood, and Roger Werksman, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

The only major upsets were turned in by a couple of Mexican teams. A pair of cousins, Gustavo and Antonio Palafox, tripped up the Indian team of Ramanathan Kirshnan and Premjit Lall, fourth-seeded among the foreign entrants, 9-7, 4-6, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Al Ochoa and Juan Hermosilla turned back Australia's Marty Mulligan and Ken Fletcher, fifth-seeded foreign team, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Olmedo and Buchholz had trouble only in their third set. Palmer and Earnhart got some good returns in the ninth game to break Buchholz' service, then went on to take the set. But Buchholz and Olmedo came back to win the match without further trouble.

Robert Mark and Rodney Laver, an Australian team ranked second among the foreign entries, took Michael Crane, Berkeley, Calif., and Steve Chandler, San Francisco, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3.

Featherweight Crown Is At Stake Tonight

Moore Is Choice Over Bassey In Los Angeles Bout

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—International boxing interest centers on Los Angeles again Wednesday night when Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria attempts to regain the world featherweight title from Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio.

The so-called smart money says the 27-year-old Kid, who now lives in Liverpool, can't do it.

Moore, 25, who stopped the handy-legged Bassey in 13 rounds here last March 18, is a 3-1 favorite to continue to rule the world's 126-pounders.

The fight, at 15 rounds, is at the downtown Olympic Auditorium before a crowd approaching 10,000. It will be nationally televised via ABC starting at 7 p.m., PDT, with this area blotted out.

The boxers weigh in at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Both are expected to make the 126-pound limit. Last time out Hogan weighed 125, Moore 125½.

The referee and two judges will be named at ringside. The 10-point per round scoring will prevail—10 to the winner of a round, nine or less to the loser.

In the first match, Moore, then the No. 1 contender, trailed in points for the first five rounds.

Then Davey, beaten only five times as a pro, went to work. From the sixth on his blows to the head had the game Bassey bleeding badly from cuts over the eyes.

At the end of the 13th round Hogan's shrewd British pilot, George Biddles, had the fight stopped. Moore was ahead on official score cards from four to seven points at the time.

There is no rematch clause in the current contract, as before. Each fighter collects 30 per cent of the gate and the TV revenue.

The arena is scaled for a $90,000 gate. The TV rights were sold for $40,000.

Hermanettes Win

The Hermanettes defeated Hank's Pharmacy in a Women's Rec Softball League game yesterday at Nave's Crossroads Field by the score of 14-6.

The winners collected 11 hits, including a double and single each by Kathy Mullaney and Annabelle Leatherman and two singles each by Carol Hardman, Bev Warnick and Pat Cioni. Mann had two hits and Iris Washington slammed a triple for Hank's. The score:

Tacoma Gets Franchise Of Phoenix Club

Attendance Plunge Results In Shift

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)— The Phoenix Giants, beset with financial troubles due to poor attendance, decided Tuesday to shift the team's Pacific Coast League baseball franchise to Tacoma, Wash., next season.

General Manager Rosy Ryan said owners of other clubs in the league informally approved the franchise switch in telephone conversations with him.

Tacoma's city council Monday night approved by an 8-1 vote a $590,000 bond issue to build a 7,000-seat baseball park and Ryan said he expected to receive word momentarily that the county would go in on the deal. The Giants would pay half the construction cost of the park.

The Phoenix club, owned by the San Francisco Giants, was established as a PCL member in 1958 when the National League moved the Dodgers to Los Angeles from Brooklyn and the Giants to San Francisco from New York.

Horace Stoneham, owner of both the Phoenix and San Francisco Giants, met with city officials here Monday night and said lack of attendance was just too much for the farm club to cope with financially.

Other PCL owners, he said, complained they could not even make hotel bills for their teams when they played in Phoenix.

Total attendance at Phoenix this season was not expected to exceed 80,000.

Ryan said that just to break even Phoenix would have to draw 230,000. Last season when the local club won the PCL pennant total attendance was 122,000.

Getting back to Mr. Mueller, Farrell says "there was none finer."

BALLOTS sent out recently for the National Jockeys Hall of Fame at Pimlico contain the names of seven inactive riders with instructions given to vote for two.

He was the top money winning rider of 1912 and was the nation's leading race rider in 1920. For 10 years he was among the top saddle stars.

Of interest to Cumberland racing fans is the fact that at the age of 40 Butwell rode at Fairgo during the five-day meeting in 1927. He had one winner, one second and one third.

In those days at the local half mile track, vaudeville acts were put on in front of the grandstand between the races and the fair was held the same week.

QUOTING Paul Menton, sports editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun:

"Only those who had the good fortune to be closely associated with John Vernall realize the great loss his death at 29 means to high school athletics in Baltimore county. He was a truly dedicated teacher and coach.

A native of Cumberland and former Allegany High School and Fairmont State College athlete, Vernall died last Thursday morning in a Baltimore hospital.

THE DEATH of Enoch P. Price of Frostburg the other day marked the passing of the owner and trainer of the largest stable of horses ever handled by an Allegany countian.

Other horses in the Price string included Bonziah Seniah, an "old-timer," Stanley, Nimble K Fox, Melissa W., LaVega, Neddie's Doll, Tiz Tiz It, Erejee, Bus N Bus and Rectortown.

Bonziah Seniah when spelled backwards was supposed to be the name of a famous French actress.

Melissa W., named after Mrs. Price, was not a filly or a mare but was a gelding.

Enoch used to chuckle whenever he told the story about the misnaming of this horse.

REMEMBER Clarence "Socko" Trenaman, the heavyweight belter from the Tri-Towns, who was a knockout artist in the pro boxing shows here in 1928 and 1929?

"Socko" visited "Vic" Ricker, the former local boxing promoter the other day while en route from a vacation in Canada to his home in Middletown, Ohio.

Trenaman is now an evangelist. A year ago he was seriously ill. Then he scaled over 300 pounds. Now he is down to 200 and looks the picture of health, according to maestro Ricker.

"Socko" used to pack 'em in at the State Armory. He belted out seven in a row and all in the first or second rounds before he lost his first bout here.

CLARENCE HARPER, of 724 Elm Street, ranked in eighth place nationally among the amateur motorcycle hill climbers in the United States this year, according to statistics compiled by the Amateur Motorcycle Association.

Harper is credited with 24 points.

THE FIRST motorcycle hill climbing program in this section since June 16, 1957, is set for Labor Day, Sept. 7, off Route 51 in Maryland, four miles from Paw Paw, W. Va.

Contestants in the recent national championship tests at Muskegon, Mich., will compete in the two pro and two amateur events here. The field will include several Canadian slant riders.

In the 1957 hill climbs on the Kline farm near the airport, Joseph W. Hemmis and Howard Mitzell won the pro events and Charley Jacob and Gordon Mitzel were the amateur victors.

This emporium will have 112 lanes and is big enough to hold two football gridirons, house a 15-car freight train, easily contain the longest home run ever hit and make a great number of bowlers happy at one time.

The building also contains three cocktail lounges, a large restaurant and snack bar and persons desiring to travel the 635 feet from end to end may use a trolley car.

The establishment covers more than 2½ acres of land and can accommodate 560 bowlers at one time. Cost is estimated at three million dollars.

RUSH FOR GOLD, the horse that returned $104 for $2 and figured in the $2,603.40 daily double payoff yesterday at Charles Town, has raced at Fairgo in recent years.

And did you notice that Miss Gold Rush won yesterday at Atlantic City and paid $44.60!

Olmedo, Buchholz, Fraser, Emerson Capture Matches

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—The top U.S. and Australian doubles teams advanced without serious difficulty Tuesday in second round play of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn's national doubles tourney.

The top-seeded American team of Alex Olmedo and Earl Buchholz Jr., stumbled only once in whipping 17-year-old Ramsey Earnhart, Ventura, Calif., and Paul Palmer, Phoenix, Ariz., 6-2, 6-2, 9-11, 6-2.

Australia's top duo, and the Wimbledon champions, Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson, handled a couple of young Californians easily. They beat Al Driscole, Hollywood, and Roger Werksman, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

The only major upsets were turned in by a couple of Mexican teams. A pair of cousins, Gustavo and Antonio Palafox, tripped up the Indian team of Ramanathan Kirshnan and Premjit Lall, fourth-seeded among the foreign entrants, 9-7, 4-6, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Al Ochoa and Juan Hermosilla turned back Australia's Marty Mulligan and Ken Fletcher, fifth-seeded foreign team, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Olmedo and Buchholz had trouble only in their third set. Palmer and Earnhart got some good returns in the ninth game to break Buchholz' service, then went on to take the set. But Buchholz and Olmedo came back to win the match without further trouble.

Robert Mark and Rodney Laver, an Australian team ranked second among the foreign entries, took Michael Crane, Berkeley, Calif., and Steve Chandler, San Francisco, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3.

Mesdames Johnson, Herath Are Victors In Boggs Tourney

Mrs. Henry A. Johnson won in Class A and Mrs. Charles Herath was the winner in Class B in the Carroll Boggs Trophy Tournament held yesterday by the Women's Golf Association at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Johnson paced a field of 20 players with a net 80-7—73 while Mrs. Herath topped ten players in her division with a 119-43—76.

CCC Men Golfers Play Martinsburg In Sunday Match

Victorious in six out of seven matches this season, the CCC team won the opener of the series from the West Virginians, 27 to 7½ points.

The qualifying round of the men's fall golf championship tournament will get under way on Saturday, August 22, and will run through Friday, August 28. Charles S. Catherman Jr. is the depending champion.

A mixed scotch foursome is scheduled for Friday at the club. Dinner will be served on the patio.

Rice To Toss First Ball In Legion Tourney

College Park Games Will Start Today

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Sam Rice, who had a lifetime batting average of .322 during his 19 years in the major leagues, will toss out the first ball Wednesday to start the opening game of the American Legion Junior Baseball Regional playoffs.

Washington Gas Light Post 44, defending champions, meets Laurence Roberts Post 21 of Wilmington, Del., in the opener of the double elimination tournament. Greenbelt, Md., Post 136 plays Parkersburg, W. Va., Post 15 in the second game.

The fifth team in the tourney, champions from the Panama Canal Zone, drew a first round tye and will meet the winners of the first game Thursday.

Rice, 67, who lives in nearby Sandy Spring, Md., broke in with the Washington Senators in 1915 as a pitcher but shifted to the outfield the next year. He remained with the Nationals through 1933 when he went to Cleveland to play his last season in 1934.

He played a total of 2,404 games during his career. He has been nominated several times for Baseball's Hall of Fame but has fallen a few votes short each time.

Jerome Van Meter Named Principal

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI) — Jerome R. Van Meter, athletic director and coach at Woodrow Wilson High School here for the past 30 years, has resigned to become principal of Beckley Junior High School, it was announced Tuesday.

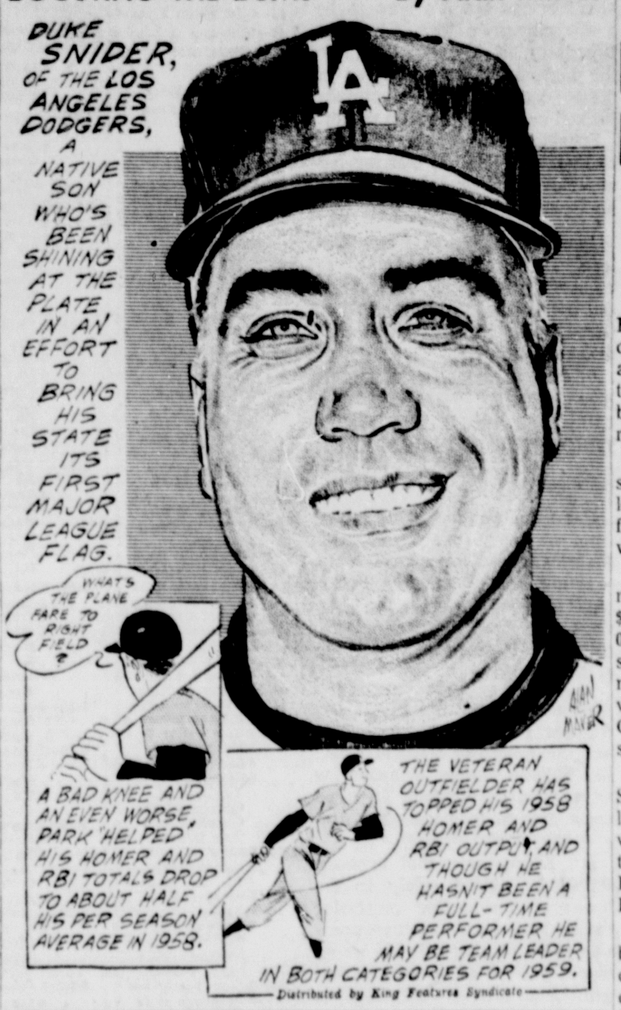

The high point of Van Meter's coaching career at Woodrow Wilson came between 1951 and 1955 when he led the school to four straight state basketball championships. His basketball teams also won state championships in 1946 and 1957.

Van Meter, who also coached the school's football team until Nelson Bragg took over in 1955, won state football championships in 1947-48 and in 1951.

Featherweight Crown Is At Stake Tonight

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—International boxing interest centers on Los Angeles again Wednesday night when Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria attempts to regain the world featherweight title from Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio.

The so-called smart money says the 27-year-old Kid, who now lives in Liverpool, can't do it.

Moore, 25, who stopped the bandy-legged Bassey in 13 rounds here last March 18, is a 3-1 favorite to continue to rule the world's 126-pounders.

The fight, at 15 rounds, is at the downtown Olympic Auditorium before a crowd approaching 10,000. It will be nationally televised via ABC starting at 7 p.m., PDT, with this area blotted out.

The boxers weigh in at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Both are expected to make the 126-pound limit. Last time out Hogan weighed 125, Moore 125½.

The referee and two judges will be named at ringside. The 10-point per round scoring will prevail—10 to the winner of a round, nine or less to the loser.

In the first match, Moore, then the No. 1 contender, trailed in points for the first five rounds.

Then Davey, beaten only five times as a pro, went to work. From the sixth on his blows to the head had the game Bassey bleeding badly from cuts over the eyes.

At the end of the 13th round Hogan's shrewd British pilot, George Biddles, had the fight stopped. Moore was ahead on official score cards from four to seven points at the time.

There is no rematch clause in the current contract, as before. Each fighter collects 30 per cent of the gate and the TV revenue.

The arena is scaled for a $90,000 gate. The TV rights were sold for $40,000.

Hermanettes Win

The Hermanettes defeated Hank's Pharmacy in a Women's Rec Softball League game yesterday at Nave's Crossroads Field by the score of 14-6.

The winners collected 11 hits, including a double and single each by Kathy Mullaney and Annabelle Leatherman and two singles each by Carol Hardman, Bev Warnick and Pat Cioni. Mann had two hits and Iris Washington slammed a triple for Hank's. The score:

Tacoma Gets Franchise Of Phoenix Club

Attendance Plunge Results In Shift

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)— The Phoenix Giants, beset with financial troubles due to poor attendance, decided Tuesday to shift the team's Pacific Coast League baseball franchise to Tacoma, Wash., next season.

General Manager Rosy Ryan said owners of other clubs in the league informally approved the franchise switch in telephone conversations with him.

Tacoma's city council Monday night approved by an 8-1 vote a $590,000 bond issue to build a 7,000-seat baseball park and Ryan said he expected to receive word momentarily that the county would go in on the deal. The Giants would pay half the construction cost of the park.

The Phoenix club, owned by the San Francisco Giants, was established as a PCL member in 1958 when the National League moved the Dodgers to Los Angeles from Brooklyn and the Giants to San Francisco from New York.

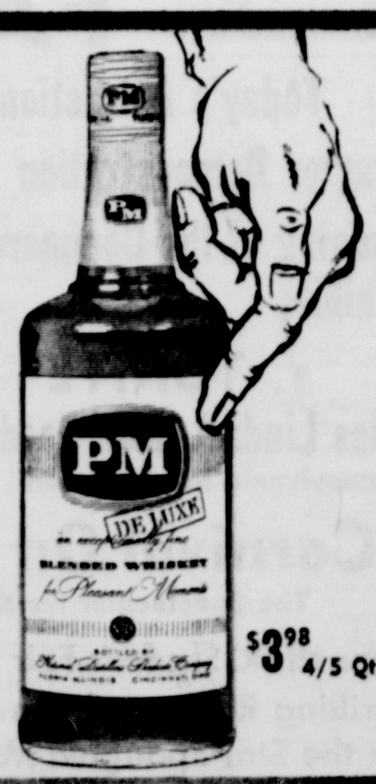

Horace Stoneham, owner of both the Phoenix and San Francisco Giants, met with city officials here Monday night and said lack of attendance was just too much for the farm club to cope with financially.

Other PCL owners, he said, complained they could not even make hotel bills for their teams when they played in Phoenix.

Total attendance at Phoenix this season was not expected to exceed 80,000.

Ryan said that just to break even Phoenix would have to draw 230,000. Last season when the local club won the PCL pennant total attendance was 122,000.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — To fathom the mind of the Russian government takes more brains than this columnist can claim, so it's a minor mystery as to why the Soviets are going to release the previously banned "Ivan, The Terrible" in this country.

The picture was made by their film genius, Sergei Eisenstein, and released in Russia right after the last war. It has not been allowed to go out of the country because the story of Ivan closely parallels the despotic rule of the Communist government. It was the second picture in a series of three about Ivan, The Terrible, which Eisenstein had planned, but he died in 1948 before finishing the third.

My friend Rosalind Russell, who is as lucky as she is talented, rates the big splash of kicking off Hubbell Robinson's well-publicized spectaculars for Ford over NBC this fall. Hub has signed Roz to star in the premiere show, "The Wonderful World of Entertainment," telecasting on Oct. 6. In this, Roz appears as the audience's guide through all phases of the entertainment world including Hollywood, the Broadway stage, TV, radio and nightclubs.

On this same production will be that out-and-out little scene stealer Eddie Hodges of "Music Man" and "Hole In The Head" fame.

Despite that big settlement Marion Marshall got from Stanley Donen which makes her one of Hollywood's best heeled divorcees, she isn't coasting on her bank account. Leaving shortly for a trip to Europe she has told Sheldon Reynolds that she will make a pilot TV series for him in Italy. Marion is certainly pretty enough to resume the career she interrupted when she married Stanley.

He's also in Europe preparing several films for his independent set-up. And the rumors continue that his new romance with Lady Adele Beatty is still blazing.

Bing Crosby's bid for "Music Man" apparently wasn't high enough as Meredith Willson's hit musical went on the market for "open bidding" among movie studios today. Morton Da Costa, the director, flew to the coast to be on hand for the movie sale of his Broadway baby, temporarily shelving work on his next New York show, "Saratoga." It will be interesting to see what "Music Man" brings but it's sure to be a whopping price. This is the first Broadway hit in years to go to the highest bidder and most of these successes are already backed and owned by film money.

Speaking of Da Costa, he'll talk to Lucille Ball about starring her in - Believe It Or Not - a drama on Broadway in 1960.

Amusing cablegram from Marlene Dietrich after being so mobbed by fans after her show at the opera house in Buenos Aires that she had to be carried out in a dead faint:

"LATINS ARE TENDER. IN BRAZIL THEY THROW FLOWERS: IN ARGENTINE THEY THROW THEMSELVES. BOTH FEEL 'MACANUDO'." (Spanish for 'the most').

Far from wanting to get away from the overly enthusiastic South Americans who have gone crazy over her, Marle has extended her night club act to include Santiago, Chile, and Lima, Peru, before returning to the comparative safety of New York.

With the permission of the Los Angeles County Medical Society and the American Medical Assn., Dr. William Kroger is appearing as a guest on the Sam Levinson Show Aug. 27 to discuss the uses and abuses of hypnosis.

Dr. Kroger says that hypnosis should be placed solely in the hands of the healing profession rather than used by entertainers who are exploiting it in the wrong way. He is the doctor who worked with Linda Darnell in Chicago, to give her confidence.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — To fathom the mind of the Russian government takes more brains than this columnist can claim, so it's a minor mystery as to why the Soviets are going to release the previously banned "Ivan, The Terrible" in this country.

The picture was made by their film genius, Sergei Eisenstein, and released in Russia right after the last war. It has not been allowed to go out of the country because the story of Ivan closely parallels the despotic rule of the Communist government. It was the second picture in a series of three about Ivan, The Terrible, which Eisenstein had planned, but he died in 1948 before finishing the third.

My friend Rosalind Russell, who is as lucky as she is talented, rates the big splash of kicking off Hubbell Robinson's well-publicized spectaculars for Ford over NBC this fall. Hub has signed Roz to star in the premiere show, "The Wonderful World of Entertainment," telecasting on Oct. 6. In this, Roz appears as the audience's guide through all phases of the entertainment world including Hollywood, the Broadway stage, TV, radio and nightclubs.

On this same production will be that out-and-out little scene stealer Eddie Hodges of "Music Man" and "Hole In The Head" fame.

Despite that big settlement Marion Marshall got from Stanley Donen which makes her one of Hollywood's best heeled divorcees, she isn't coasting on her bank account. Leaving shortly for a trip to Europe she has told Sheldon Reynolds that she will make a pilot TV series for him in Italy. Marion is certainly pretty enough to resume the career she interrupted when she married Stanley.

He's also in Europe preparing several films for his independent set-up. And the rumors continue that his new romance with Lady Adele Beatty is still blazing.

Bing Crosby's bid for "Music Man" apparently wasn't high enough as Meredith Willson's hit musical went on the market for "open bidding" among movie studios today. Morton Da Costa, the director, flew to the coast to be on hand for the movie sale of his Broadway baby, temporarily shelving work on his next New York show, "Saratoga." It will be interesting to see what "Music Man" brings but it's sure to be a whopping price. This is the first Broadway hit in years to go to the highest bidder and most of these successes are already backed and owned by film money.

Speaking of Da Costa, he'll talk to Lucille Ball about starring her in - Believe It Or Not - a drama on Broadway in 1960.

Amusing cablegram from Marlene Dietrich after being so mobbed by fans after her show at the opera house in Buenos Aires that she had to be carried out in a dead faint:

"LATINS ARE TENDER. IN BRAZIL THEY THROW FLOWERS: IN ARGENTINE THEY THROW THEMSELVES. BOTH FEEL 'MACANUDO'." (Spanish for 'the most').

Far from wanting to get away from the overly enthusiastic South Americans who have gone crazy over her, Marie has extended her night club act to include Santiago, Chile, and Lima, Peru, before returning to the comparative safety of New York.

With the permission of the Los Angeles County Medical Society and the American Medical Assn., Dr. William Kroger is appearing as a guest on the Sam Levinson Show Aug. 27 to discuss the uses and abuses of hypnosis.

Dr. Kroger says that hypnosis should be placed solely in the hands of the healing profession rather than used by entertainers who are exploiting it in the wrong way. He is the doctor who worked with Linda Darnell in Chicago, to give her confidence.

The government of this British crown colony has drafted plans for six such community centers for refugees.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. E. F. Shriver, who passed away 5 years ago, Aug. 19, 1954.
Always so true, unselfish and kind,
Few in this world her equal you'll find.
She died as she lived, everyone's friend,
Beautiful memories of a smiling face.
A broken link no one can replace,
Whatever else I fail to do,
I'll never fail to think of you.
Sadly missed by her son, GLENDEN L. SHRIVER, SR.

CHRYSLER
RIVIERA

This 2 door Hardtop Special is the economy car as far as operation is concerned in the Buick line. It is expensive as far as appearance and comfort. It has a body of medium blue with a white top, with leather trimmed upholstery and door panels of 2 shades of blue with dark blue floor carpets. A smooth powerful engine combined with Dynaflow makes driving a pleasure. Heater, radio, backup lights and other small extras included. This is a local one owner car.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. E. F. Shriver, who passed away 5 years ago, Aug. 19, 1954.
Always so true, unselfish and kind.
Few in this world her equal you'll find.
She died as she lived, everyone's friend.
Beautiful memories of a smiling face.
A broken link no one can replace.
Whatever else I fail to do,
I'll never fail to think of you.
Sadly missed by her son, GLENDEN L. SHRIVER, SR.

CHRYSLER
55 BUICK RIVIERA

This 2 door Hardtop Special is the economy car as far as operation is concerned in the Buick line. It is expensive as far as appearance and comfort. It has a body of medium blue with a white top, with leather trimmed upholstery and door panels of 2 shades of blue with dark blue floor carpets. A smooth powerful engine combined with Dynaflow makes driving a pleasure. Heater, radio, backup lights and other small extras included. This is a local one owner car.

Two Baltimoreans To Be Arraigned

In the York County jail are Robert Gerlech, 26, and Edwin H. Fear, 27. Police said the men had told them they committed at least 15 robberies, all of loan offices in several Eastern states.

The police said the men admitted three loan office holdups in Harrisburg, three in York, two in Philadelphia and one each in Winchester, Va.; Richmond, Va.; Belair, Md.; Alexandria, Va., and Willow Lawn, Va., as well as three in undisclosed Texas cities.

The pair, long sought by police in central Pennsylvania, were caught after officials staked out officers in loan offices throughout the area and armed loan office clerks with a sketch by Pennsylvania State police.

Small Mines Oppose Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Operators of small coal mines Tuesday objected to proposals to put them under the Federal mine safety laws.

B.F. Freed, Drift, Ky., said backers of the proposals are mainly interested in eliminating the small operator.

J.B. Taggart, Norton, Va., also said he thought the large coal operators were trying to hamper the small ones.

Both men testified before a House Labor Subcommittee on bills that would erase the exemption from the Federal Mine Safety Act now given to coal mines employing less than 15 persons.

There are so many differences between big and small coal mines, it's like comparing a big ocean liner to a motor boat, Reed said.

Taggart said he wasn't opposed to any "needed proper legislation."

The Federal Bureau of Mines and the United Mine Workers Union have testified in support of the legislation to eliminate the exemption.

College Planning Evening Classes

TAKOMA PARK, Md. (AP) — Montgomery Junior College Tuesday announced plans to establish evening extension classes in four high schools this fall.

"We want to make it more convenient for county residents to get a higher education," said Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, assistant dean of the college's evening and extension division.

Until now, evening courses have been offered here only. The college is a county institution.

The four schools where fully accredited programs will be given are Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School; Northwood High School, Silver Spring; Richard Montgomery High School, Rockville, and Wheaton High School.

Family Outing Held

Swimming and singing featured the entertainment at the family night program of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Olivers Grove Church, held at the home of Mrs. Eugene Carder.

Following a picnic supper, Mrs. Patsy Davis led a vesper service. Solos and duets were sung by Mrs. Iona Anderson and Mrs. Davis, and the group sang favorite hymns. Prayer was offered by Rev. William Anderson. A surprise card shower was held for Mrs. Florence Wolfe and Mrs. Broder Erickson, in recognition of their birthdays.

Two Baltimoreans To Be Arraigned

In the York County jail are Robert Gerlech, 26, and Edwin H. Fear, 27. Police said the men had told them they committed at least 15 robberies, all of loan offices in several Eastern states.

The police said the men admitted three loan office holdups in Harrisburg, three in York, two in Philadelphia and one each in Winchester, Va.; Richmond, Va.; Belair, Md.; Alexandria, Va., and Willow Lawn, Va., as well as three in undisclosed Texas cities.

The pair, long sought by police in central Pennsylvania, were caught after officials staked out officers in loan offices throughout the area and armed loan office clerks with a sketch by Pennsylvania State police.

Small Mines Oppose Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Operators of small coal mines Tuesday objected to proposals to put them under the Federal mine safety laws.

B.F. Freed, Drift, Ky., said backers of the proposals are mainly interested in eliminating the small operator.

J.B. Taggart, Norton, Va., also said he thought the large coal operators were trying to hamper the small ones.

Both men testified before a House Labor Subcommittee on bills that would erase the exemption from the Federal Mine Safety Act now given to coal mines employing less than 15 persons.

There are so many differences between big and small coal mines, it's like comparing a big ocean liner to a motor boat, Reed said.

Taggart said he wasn't opposed to any "needed proper legislation."

The Federal Bureau of Mines and the United Mine Workers Union have testified in support of the legislation to eliminate the exemption.

College Planning Evening Classes

TAKOMA PARK, Md. (AP) — Montgomery Junior College Tuesday announced plans to establish evening extension classes in four high schools this fall.

"We want to make it more convenient for county residents to get a higher education," said Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, assistant dean of the college's evening and extension division.

Until now, evening courses have been offered here only. The college is a county institution.

The four schools where fully accredited programs will be given are Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School; Northwood High School, Silver Spring; Richard Montgomery High School, Rockville, and Wheaton High School.

Family Outing Held

William Anderson. A surprise card shower was held for Mrs. Florence Wolfe and Mrs. Broder Erickson, in recognition of their birthdays.

Stock Market Decline Is Without Pressure

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock market values fell some three-and-one-half billion dollars in a decline that, while it brought individual losses of 2 and 3 points in nearly all groups, was, nonetheless, virtually without pressure.

Turnover of 2,280,000 shares, although ahead of Monday's 15-month low 1,980,000-share volume, was anything but active.

While the market was unsettled all day, heaviest losses came in the late trading when some issues dropped a point or two at a clip. Much of the selling seemed of the profit-taking variety which hit recently strong issues in the electronics, chemicals, tires.

The major losses appeared in industrials, but Wall Street chartists watched closely the action of the rail average as it approached the 160 level which is considered a critical one. Should this mark be penetrated decisively, some analysts hold, it could spell a bad time for the market. The final rail compilation left the average at 160.75, off 1.43 on the day.

Industrials lost 7.63 to 650.79 in their average; utilities 0.40 to 91.52 and the 65-stock general average was 2.12 lower at 217.28. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 0.55 to 56.62.

A few stocks moved in line with corporate news developments. United Fruit, most actively traded issue for the second session in a row, fell another 3 points on its dividend ommission. One of the few rails to show a gain was Missouri Pacific in response to announcement that Mississippi River Fuel had acquired a 10 per cent interest in the road. Up a point at one time, it held ¼ at the close.

Of a total 1,183 issues traded, only 236 managed a gain on the day while 747 were lower.

Most of the list favored the downside with fractional losses predominating.

The bidding:

4 ♦	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

A gross overbid by South in today's hand paid off a handsome reward when he correctly diagnosed the only adverse distribution that would give him a chance to land the slam contract.

The bidding started out in orthodox fashion. West had a sound overcall and North a top drawer jump raise. But South's cue bid of four diamonds seems to this observer to be exceedingly aggressive. In view of the adverse overcall, South should devalue his queen of diamonds, so that his hand becomes a minimum opening. He should therefore proceed merely to four hearts.

South attempted to slow down the proceedings subsequently by signing off at five hearts, but it was too late to stop. North was well within himself in bidding the small slam.

The hopelessness of the situation was apparent from the outset, for even if the club king were favorably located, the inevitable losers appeared to be a spade and a heart. But South gave the management of the dummy the same ambitious treatment he manifested in the auction. Assuming the success of the club finesse, he would have to find West with a doubleton spade and the lone ace of trumps, a parlay that ranks as one of the longest shots of the season.

After winning the opening spade lead in his hand declarer, employing delicate timing, led a club at once. The queen was successfully finessed, the ace cashed, and a third club ruffed in the closed hand. Declarer next played the ace and queen of diamonds ruffing in the dummy. He then cashed the ace of spades and got out with a trump. West was locked in with only minor suit cards left to lead and declarer was able to shed the losing spade from dummy as he ruffed in the closed hand.

And as he did so, we felt constrained to bow our heads and apologize to South for the comments we had made in the bidding section.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Most grain prices were lower Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¾ to 1; Corn off ¼ to up ⅝; oats up ½; new oats off ⅛; rye off ⅛ to up ⅝; soybeans off ⅛ to 1¼, and lard off 10 to 23 points.

Wheat eased under commission house liquidation and local selling. A cash house broker was an early buyer of March, and an export house was also a moderate buyer. No export activity was reported in wheat.

It was reported the government purchased 292,675 sacks of flour for domestic relief Monday and has requested flour mills to offer 975,000 more Wednesday for foreign relief.

The corn market was quiet and mixed. A prominent house bought May and sold December at a 5½ cent difference. Cash houses and several elevators were also buyers of corn. Receipts were very light. Export subsidies were granted on 110,000 bushels of corn.

Oats were steady. Some local traders liquidated December. Elevator houses bought September and sold December.

Rye weakened as traders continued to be uneasy about the import quota. Some months were firm at the close.

Soybeans were easy in a mixed trade. Favorable crop comments brought on scattered selling and liquidation of September. Some traders resold their earlier purchases when the by-products failed to respond to early firmness in soybeans.

Stock Market Decline Is Without Pressure

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock market values fell some three-and-one-half billion dollars in a decline that, while it brought individual losses of 2 and 3 points in nearly all groups, was, nonetheless, virtually without pressure.

Turnover of 2,280,000 shares, although ahead of Monday's 15-month low 1,980,000-share volume, was anything but active.

While the market was unsettled all day, heaviest losses came in the late trading when some issues dropped a point or two at a clip. Much of the selling seemed of the profit-taking variety which hit recently strong issues in the electronics, chemicals, tires.

The major losses appeared in industrials, but Wall Street chartists watched closely the action of the rail average as it approached the 160 level which is considered a critical one. Should this mark be penetrated decisively, some analysts hold, it could spell a bad time for the market. The final rail compilation left the average at 160.75, off 1.43 on the day.

Industrials lost 7.63 to 650.79 in their average; utilities 0.40 to 91.52 and the 65-stock general average was 2.12 lower at 217.28. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 0.55 to 55.62.

A few stocks moved in line with corporate news developments. United Fruit, most actively traded issue for the second session in a row, fell another 3 points on its dividend ommission. One of the few rails to show a gain was Missouri Pacific in response to announcement that Mississippi River Fuel had acquired a 10 per cent interest in the road. Up a point at one time, it held ¼ at the close.

Of a total 1,183 issues traded, only 236 managed a gain on the day while 747 were lower.

Most of the list favored the downside with fractional losses predominating.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints, each day the code letters are different.

South	West	North	East

4 ♦	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 ♥	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

A gross overbid by South in today's hand paid off a handsome reward when he correctly diagnosed the only adverse distribution that would give him a chance to land the slam contract.

The bidding started out in orthodox fashion. West had a sound overcall and North a top drawer jump raise. But South's cue bid of four diamonds seems to this observer to be exceedingly aggressive. In view of the adverse overcall, South should devalue his queen of diamonds, so that his hand becomes a minimum opening. He should therefore proceed merely to four hearts.

South attempted to slow down the proceedings subsequently by signing off at five hearts, but it was too late to stop. North was well within himself in bidding the small slam.

The hopelessness of the situation was apparent from the outset, for even if the club king were favorably located, the inevitable losers appeared to be a spade and a heart. But South gave the management of the dummy the same ambitious treatment he manifested in the auction. Assuming the success of the club finesse, he would have to find West with a doubleton spade and the lone ace of trumps, a parlay that ranks as one of the longest shots of the season.

After winning the opening spade lead in his hand declarer, employing delicate timing, led a club at once. The queen was successfully finessed, the ace cashed, and a third club ruffed in the closed hand. Declarer next played the ace and queen of diamonds ruffing in the dummy. He then cashed the ace of spades and got out with a trump. West was locked in with only minor suit cards left to lead and declarer was able to shed the losing spade from dummy as he ruffed in the closed hand.

And as he did so, we felt constrained to bow our heads and apologize to South for the comments we had made in the bidding section.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Most grain prices were lower Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¼ to 1; Corn off ¼ to up ⅜; oats up ½; new oats off ⅛; rye off ⅛ to up ⅝; soybeans off ⅛ to 1¼, and lard off 10 to 23 points.

Wheat eased under commission house liquidation and local selling. A cash house broker was an early buyer of March, and an export house was also a moderate buyer. No export activity was reported in wheat.

It was reported the government purchased 292,675 sacks of flour for domestic relief Monday and has requested flour mills to offer 975,000 more Wednesday for foreign relief.

The corn market was quiet and mixed. A prominent house bought May and sold December at a 5½ cent difference. Cash houses and several elevators were also buyers of corn. Receipts were very light. Export subsidies were granted on 110,000 bushels of corn.

Oats were steady. Some local traders liquidated December. Elevator houses bought September and sold December.

Rye weakened as traders continued to be uneasy about the import quota. Some months were firm at the close.

Soybeans were easy in a mixed trade. Favorable crop comments brought on scattered selling and liquidation of September. Some traders resold their earlier purchases when the by-products failed to respond to early firmness in soybeans.

70 Per Cent Oppose LaVale Fire Tax Plan

39.6 Per Cent Vote On Issue

Nearly 70 per cent of the voters in the so-called LaVale fire tax area who went to the polls yesterday at the LaVale Fire Hall voted against the proposed fire tax for the area which would not have exceeded 10 cents on each $100 of assessable property.

The complete but unofficial total from the five voting machines used in the referendum:

Against	633
For	276

The negative vote was 69.6 per cent of those voting on the issue. However, more than 60 per cent of those eligible to ballot did not bother to go to the polls. The 909 who did vote represented 39.6 per cent of the 2,298 eligible to ballot.

Canvass Tomorrow

Matthew J. Mullaney, president of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, which supervised the election, said that the official canvass will start Thursday at noon at the board's office in the Court House basement.

The fire tax was authorized by House Bill 336, which was passed by the General Assembly last winter. It provided that the tax would not become effective until a majority of the voters in the affected area approved the measure in a referendum to be held within 90 days after June 1.

Three meetings were held by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department at the Fire Hall in an effort to stimulate interest in the proposal. These were held on July 10, July 31 and August 14. The attendance varied downward from a high of 75 at the first meeting.

Disagreements

The firemen contended that the door-to-door solicitation for funds for the department was not fair because many residents gave nothing and others gave very little. They also argued that in the 26 years of the volunteer fire department, fire insurance rates have been reduced appreciably as a result of their efforts.

Opponents had two conflicting arguments. One was that the proposed tax was unfair because it did not take into consideration the fact that some property is close to fire hydrants, others have city water, and still others have neither fire hydrants nor city water. Another outspoken opponent said he would be in favor of the measure if everyone paid exactly the same amount.

North Seeks Blue Cross Evidence

Asks For Help From Public

BALTIMORE (AP)—The chairman of a special legislative committee investigating Blue Cross hospital insurance in Maryland asked the public Tuesday to come forth with any documented evidence of abuses.

"Our desire is not to embarrass anyone," said Sen. John-Clarence North (D-Talbot). "But if the abuse is there we want to know about it."

North's committee has been holding public hearings once a week. Tuesday, instead, the committee met informally behind closed doors to assess the testimony taken thus far.

North also commented on suggestions that the committee's hearings might do harm to public confidence in doctors and the hospitals. Referring to Joseph Sherbow, counsel for the Hospital Council of Maryland, the senator said:

"The only person I've heard suggest that the doctors and hospitals are on trial is Judge Sherbow. The doctors of the state need never fear public or governmental censure as long as a cooperative and willing atmosphere is maintained between the physicians and the General Assembly."

County Figures City Owes $185 A Year

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday instructed James G. Stevenson, the clerk, to write the Mayor and Council of Cumberland informing the city that the county actually is entitled to $185 a year for use of the city-owned building for the Health Department.

Last week, Mayor J. Edwin Keech wrote the county commissioners that the city would begin billing the county $6,000 a year rent for using the second and third floors of the public service building by the County Health Department.

Here's the gist of the county's figuring: The third floor of that building is used exclusively by the State Health Department laboratory, so $3,000 of the rent should be assumed by the state Offsetting the $3,000 obligation, the county says, is $2,585 the county pays for the janitor service in that building and $600 for elevator maintenance and window cleaning, adding up to $3,185. That leaves the county $185 ahead.

Youth Job Service Is Suggested

Family Counseling Need Is Indicated

Formation of a Youth Employment Service was suggested in a report presented to the Allegany County Youth Commission by its employment committee.

Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Maryland Employment Service office here, presented the report to the commission last night, saying summer and part-time jobs, never adequate to meet demands, could be developed for young people if a clearing house were set up and operated by the young people themselves, under proper supervision.

Job Needs Cited

He said it might be advisable for the commission to consider such a program in view of the improved labor market picture here.

But many young people are looking for work, the report said, who do not need to work and could use their restless energy as well on volunteer activities related to community service.

There is need for jobs for youths, the report said, for those in school seeking work over summer and others who seek part-time jobs during school and in the summer.

The lack of job opportunities, the committee said, can be an important aspect in juvenile delinquency.

Cited were two types of circumstances—lack of job opportunities for youths and their parents.

Job Picture Better

Lack of job opportunities for parents of young people, it was pointed out, is a diminishing problem as far as Cumberland is concerned.

Delinquency problems can also result from too much employment, the report said.

This occurs, it said, when both parents are working and juvenile members are "on their own" for long periods during the day.

National figures, it said, indicate that nearly half the married women of the country are employed.

The situation, the committee said, indicates a need for the establishment of a family counseling service.

Schools In Md. To Have 27,059 More Students

County Enrollment To Reach 16,150

BALTIMORE (AP) — The annual squeeze of students into Maryland classrooms begins next month with an increase of 27,059 pupils forecast for the 24 separate school systems.

The State Department of Education predicts the pupil population will reach 561,240 and the number of teachers will swell to 22,724, some 1,300 more than last year.

William S. Sartorious, director of the Education Department's Division of Administration and Finance, says the State will pour some $67,000,000 into local school systems in various forms of aid. And that's only about a third of what will be spent on public education in the state.

Every subdivision is expected to register increases in school population.

Baltimore City leads the list with an anticipated enrollment of 153,840. Next come Baltimore County 83,400, Prince Georges 66,000, Montgomery 65,000, Anne Arundel 39,400, Washington 18,450, Allegany 16,150, Harford 15,600, Frederick 13,790, Carroll 10,400 and Wicomico 9,950.

Whittle Praises Quality Of Fair's Beef Cattle

Boyd Whittle, livestock extension specialist at the University of Maryland, who has judged beef cattle at the annual Cumberland Fair for five or six of the last 10 years, believes that the beef cattle show at Fairgo this week is the largest and best quality in the period that he has been judging here.

Mr. Whittle will return to Fairgo this morning as official judge for the Garrett and Allegany counties' Future Farmers of America judging contest. In most of tthe cattle judging yesterday, one particular herd appeared to stand out in nearly every breed. In the Guernsey competition R. A. McCauley of Hagerstown exhibited the grand champion cow and bull. In the Jersey breed, the grand champion bull and female were shown by Mr. and Mrs. Braden King of Boonsboro in Washington County. The junior champion bull and female were exhibited by George A. Stiles, also of Boonsboro.

Doty Ramsburg of Jefferson in Frederick County had the grand, senior and junior champion bulls and females in the Holstein breed. Donald Brooke of Pinto had two blue ribbons for his two and three -year-old heifers. Samuel J. Diehl, RFD 3, Bedford, Pa., showed the grand champion Ayrshire bull yesterday and William I. Wage Boosts Provided In New Budgets

Flat And Job Rating Methods Are Used

A $2,099,510 budget ordinance which provides wage increases for most city workers is scheduled to be adopted by the Mayor and Council today.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said the special meeting will be held at noon in the Council Chamber.

The budget ordinance was prepared yesterday after City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson amended the various budgets to provide for agreed-upon increases in wages and salaries.

From all indications, the wage boosts will total in the neighborhood of $90,000. This is the amount which the city expects to get from state gas and auto revenues after the $300,000 Thruway bond issue is sold and the city's monetary obligation toward the project is met.

Mayor Keech said city officials have tried to handle the wage and salary boosts as fairly as possible "with what we have to work with."

There will be no percentage increases, he said.

A spokesman said that city officials have tried, with funds available for salaried workers, to start a program based on minimum and maximum wage scales and "to get rates in line with duties and responsibilities."

Mayor Keech said police and firemen told city officials they are satisfied with what they will get.

The wage boosts will be the first general increases granted since 1955, although some scattered increases have been granted.

Funds in the budget ordinance will be based on the levy ordinance adopted Monday.

It provides that $1,253,080 of the record levy will be raised from the $1.56 tax levy.

There was a possibility yesterday that another ordinance might be presented for action at today's meeting.

Another item of unfinished business is the awarding of a new garbage contract.

Optometric Society Backs Better Vision Program

The Western Maryland Optometric Society is supporting a nationwide program for better vision for school children.

This year's back-to-school theme is "Learning Through Vision" and is being sponsored by the American Optometric Association.

The AOA reports that nearly 600,000 children attending school for the first time this fall will have vision defects affecting success in school work.

Studies by both optometrists and educators show that out of the 30 per cent of grade school children who have vision problems, half have hidden vision defects not easily recognized by parents or teachers.

Optometrists recommend annual vision examinations for elementary school children since many vision problems may be cleared up through professional and scientific care.

According to the AOA, too many children today must struggle through school to the sixth or seventh grade before getting needed professional care often failing one or more grades as a result.

The association reports that nearly 20 per cent of the three million youngsters entering the first grade this fall have vision defects. Half of these problems probably will be spotted by teachers or parents, but the other half will escape detection, the AOA adds.

Dr. Harold Ashby, Oakland, is president of the local society; Dr. Ethyl B. Dantzic, this city, is secretary, and Dr. William S. Firey, also of this city, is treasurer. Dr. Firey is also serving as regional chairman of the back-to-school program.

70 Per Cent Oppose LaVale Fire Tax Plan

(Picture on Page 10)

Nearly 70 per cent of the voters in the so-called LaVale fire tax area who went to the polls yesterday at the LaVale Fire Hall voted against the proposed fire tax for the area which would not have exceeded 10 cents on each $100 of assessable property.

The complete but unofficial total from the five voting machines used in the referendum:

Against	633
For	276

The negative vote was 69.6 per cent of those voting on the issue. However, more than 60 per cent of those eligible to ballot did not bother to go to the polls. The 909 who did vote represented 39.6 per cent of the 2,298 eligible to ballot.

Canvass Tomorrow

Matthew J. Mullaney, president of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, which supervised the election, said that the official canvass wi' start Thursday at noon at the board's office in the Court House basement.

The fire tax was authorized by House Bill 336, which was passed by the General Assembly last winter. It provided that the tax would not become effective until a majority of the voters in the affected area approved the measure in a referendum to be held within 90 days after June 1.

Three meetings were held by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department at the Fire Hall in an effort to stimulate interest in the proposal. These were held on July 10, July 31 and August 14. The attendance varied downward from a high of 75 at the first meeting.

Disagreements

The firemen contended that the door-to-door solicitation for funds for the department was not fair because many residents gave nothing and others gave very little. They also argued that in the 26 years of the volunteer fire department, fire insurance rates have been reduced appreciably as a result of their efforts.

Opponents had two conflicting arguments. One was that the proposed tax was unfair because it did not take into consideration the fact that some property is close to fire hydrants, others have city water, and still others have neither fire hydrants nor city water. Another outspoken opponent said he would be in favor of the measure if everyone paid exactly the same amount.

North Seeks Blue Cross Evidence

Asks For Help From Public

BALTIMORE (AP)—The chairman of a special legislative committee investigating Blue Cross hospital insurance in Maryland asked the public Tuesday to come forth with any documented evidence of abuses.

"Our desire is not to embarrass anyone," said Sen. John-Clarence North (D-Talbot). "But if the abuse is there we want to know about it."

North's committee has been holding public hearings once a week. Tuesday, instead, the committee met informally behind closed doors to assess the testimony taken thus far.

North also commented on suggestions that the committee's hearings might do harm to public confidence in doctors and the hospitals. Referring to Joseph Sherbow, counsel for the Hospital Council of Maryland, the senator said:

"The only person I've heard suggest that the doctors and hospitals are on trial is Judge Sherbow. The doctors of the state need never fear public or governmental censure as long as a cooperative and willing atmosphere is maintained between the physicians and the General Assembly."

County Figures City Owes $185 A Year

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday instructed James G. Stevenson, the clerk, to write the Mayor and Council of Cumberland informing the city that the county actually is entitled to $185 a year for use of the city-owned building for the Health Department.

Last week, Mayor J. Edwin Keech wrote the county commissioners that the city would begin billing the county $6,000 a year rent for using the second and third floors of the public service building by the County Health Department.

Here's the gist of the county's figuring: The third floor of that building is used exclusively by the State Health Department laboratory, so $3,000 of the rent should be assumed by the state. Offsetting the $3,000 obligation, the county says, is $2,585 the county pays for the janitor service in that building and $600 for elevator maintenance and window cleaning, adding up to $3,185. That leaves the county $185 ahead.

Youth Job Service Is Suggested

Family Counseling Need Is Indicated

Formation of a Youth Employment Service was suggested in a report presented to the Allegany County Youth Commission by its employment committee.

Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Maryland Employment Service office here, presented the report to the commission last night, saying summer and part-time jobs, never adequate to meet demands, could be developed for young people if a clearing house were set up and operated by the young people themselves, under proper supervision.

Job Needs Cited

He said it might be advisable for the commission to consider such a program in view of the improved labor market picture here.

But many young people are looking for work, the report said, who do not need to work and could use their restless energy as well on volunteer activities related to community service.

There is need for jobs for youths, the report said, for those in school seeking work over summer and others who seek part-time jobs during school and in the summer.

The lack of job opportunities, the committee said, can be an important aspect in juvenile delinquency.

Cited were two types of circumstances—lack of job opportunities for youths and their parents.

Job Picture Better

Lack of job opportunities for parents of young people, it was pointed out, is a diminishing problem as far as Cumberland is concerned.

Delinquency problems can also result from too much employment, the report said.

This occurs, it said, when both parents are working and juvenile members are "on their own" for long periods during the day.

National figures, it said, indicate that nearly half the married women of the country are employed.

The situation, the committee said, indicates a need for the establishment of a family counseling service.

William S. Sartorious, director of the Education Department's Division of Administration and Finance, says the State will pour some $67,000,000 into local school systems in various forms of aid. And that's only about a third of what will be spent on public education in the state.

Wage Boosts Provided In New Budgets

Flat And Job Rating Methods Are Used

A $2,099,510 budget ordinance which provides wage increases for most city workers is scheduled to be adopted by the Mayor and Council today.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said the special meeting will be held at noon in the Council Chamber.

The budget ordinance was prepared yesterday after City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson amended the various budgets to provide for agreed-upon increases in wages and salaries.

From all indications, the wage boosts will total in the neighborhood of $90,000. This is the amount which the city expects to get from state gas and auto revenues after the $300,000 Thruway bond issue is sold and the city's monetary obligation toward the project is met.

Mayor Keech said city officials have tried to handle the wage and salary boosts as fairly as possible "with what we have to work with."

There will be no percentage increases, he said.

A spokesman said that city officials have tried, with funds available for salaried workers, to start a program based on minimum and maximum wage scales and "to get rates in line with duties and responsibilities."

Mayor Keech said police and firemen told city officials they are satisfied with what they will get.

The wage boosts will be the first general increases granted since 1955, although some scattered increases have been granted.

Funds in the budget ordinance will be based on the levy ordinance adopted Monday.

It provides that $1,253,080 of the record levy will be raised from the $1.56 tax levy.

There was a possibility yesterday that another ordinance might be presented for action at today's meeting.

Another item of unfinished business is the awarding of a new garbage contract.

Optometric Society Backs Better Vision Program

The Western Maryland Optometric Society is supporting a nationwide program for better vision for school children.

This year's back-to-school theme is "Learning Through Vision" and is being sponsored by the American Optometric Association.

The AOA reports that nearly 600,000 children attending school for the first time this fall will have vision defects affecting success in school work.

Studies by both optometrists and educators show that out of the 30 per cent of grade school children who have vision problems, half have hidden vision defects not easily recognized by parents or teachers.

Optometrists recommend annual vision examinations for elementary school children since many vision problems may be cleared up through professional and scientific care.

According to the AOA, too many children today must struggle through school to the sixth or seventh grade before getting needed professional care often failing one or more grades as a result.

The association reports that nearly 20 per cent of the three million youngsters entering the first grade this fall have vision defects. Half of these problems probably will be spotted by teachers or parents, but the other half will escape detection, the AOA adds.

Dr. Harold Ashby, Oakland, is president of the local society; Dr. Ethyl B. Dantzic, this city, is secretary, and Dr. William S. Firey, also of this city, is treasurer. Dr. Firey is also serving as regional chairman of the back-to-school program.
